Legislators Pass $366,133 in Bonds

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

Three bond resolutions totaling $366,133 were approved by the Ulster County Legislature Thursday night, two of which represent economy cuts in funds for the Ulster County Community College. The third provides for paying part of the cost of reconstruction of the parking lot behind Ulster County Court House.

Unanimous approval was given the bonds for the college with $276,600 authorized for the cost of equipment and furnishings for new buildings on campus and another $49,533 approved for improvements to the college. Such improvements include a blacktop lane, stabilizing road shoulders, constructing a steel maintenance garage and establishing an audio tutorial lab.

Both measures pertaining to the college were sponsored by Brian White (R-Dist. 9) chairman of the UCCC Committee and Minority Leader Roger Mabie (D-Dist. 7).

The bond issue for the parking lot was recommended by Lester C. Elmendorf (R-Dist. 2) in an effort to make the property income producing and efficient as well as attractive in appearance.

The measure was approved 29-1 with Dr. Gerald P. Gorman (D-City) voting against it, calling it "premature."

In other action, the Legislature voted 17-11 against the creation of a County Environmental Control Board and saw a measure to create three industrial agencies withdrawn.

Mabie, labeled the session as "a very curious meeting" due to the fact that the voting on various measures, although sometimes political, was more often that not completely unpredictable, changeable and not always according to party lines.

A case in point was the resolution submitted by the 11 Democratic members of the board calling for the creation of the County Environmental Control Board. As Mabie suggested, ecology, like motherhood hardly ever runs into opposition but it did last night, not on its merit but rather in the matter of who was promoting it.

After an angry exchange between a number of legislators on both sides of the aisle, Legislator James Gilpatric (D-City) tagged the dialogue as "petty bickering."

A move to refer the matter to the Public Health Committee "where it is now" was suggested by Legislator Louis Bevier (R-Dist. 8) who said it was "unbelievable that the Democrats could come through with something already under study by the Health Committee."

Mabie countered saying he and his fellow Democrats were glad to deal with the problem "before it reaches a stage of crisis."

"Referring is deferring to the inevitable," he continued. "A great deal can be accomplished now at no cost to the county."

William West (R-Dist. 12) accused the Democrats of "climbing on the ecological bandwagon."

"I take exception," retorted Mabie, "protecting the environment was number three on the Democratic platform" advanced in January.

The motion to refer to committee brought in 15 yes votes and 12 no with 17 needed for passage.

Not all 33 legislators were present at any one time during the meeting. The number varied from hour to hour due partially to William Edelmuth's (D-City) sudden attack of illness and Dr. Gorman's accompanying him to the hospital where he was later described as comfortable. Dr. Gorman said that Edelmuth suffered an attack of pulmonary congestion and was placed under medication.

On the motion to refer to committee, members of both parties crossed party lines to vote and Andrew Gilday (D-City) abstained.

On the motion to create the environmental board, Gilday voted aye but the measure was defeated 17-11, along party lines.

The resolution to create three industrial development agencies was withdrawn by its sponsor, Ralph C. Brach (R-Dist. 9) who said he understood a two-thirds vote was required and, "I don't think I have it." But, he added "hope springs eternal and if I'm here another year, I will submit the proposal again to create one agency."

Opposition to the proposal had been voiced in recent weeks by various legislators who felt that the proposed agencies would be too autonomous.

A resolution to provide outside supplemental funds for funeral directors in the case of burial of indigents was approved 27-1 with Brach opposed.

West, prior to the vote on the measure amended the resolution to include having the social services commissioner inform the family of the deceased that any additional payments would be voluntary.

In other action, the board defeated a resolution calling for the transferring of funds for the purchase of an automobile for the Probation Department, 26-1; unanimously approved resolutions calling for investigation of the federal food stamp program, and directing the commissioner of social services to refrain from taking action on any state mandates regarding the welfare program.

Other resolutions which met with approval included one calling for the Infirmary Annex at Golden Hill to operate as a health related facility. Another recommended implementation of a management training program for supervisory personnel.

May, 1971 was proclaimed "Jobs for Veterans Month" and May 22 was named "Senior Citizens Day" with the entire month of May known as "Senior Citizens Month."

Other approved measures included endorsing state legislation to establish a temporary state commission on the Catskills. Two resolutions dealt with data processing, one calling for leasing of equipment and another for sale of a unit.

The meeting was adjourned in memory of Dr. Ina Sartorius of Accord and Chester Elliott, community leader from New Paltz.

Speaks at Mid-Hudson Industrial Dinner

Buckley Has Revenue Plan

By TIM SCHUSTER

FISHKILL

In his first official upstate visit since being elected, Senator James Buckley Thursday night told an audience of Mid - Hudson Industrial Association members that he would propose his own concept of a federal revenue-sharing program next week.

"Governor Rockefeller and Governor Reagan have brought to light unrealistic federal guidelines," he told the press prior to his presentation.

And he later elaborated that the controlled revenue-sharing concept of President Nixon's was more to his taste than the general program called for by many state governors.

In answer to other questions, Buckley said he was "hopeful there will be local hearings so people can register their druthers" on the Stewart jetport proposal. "Sooner or later there is going to be a jetport in somebody's back yard," he commented.

When asked for his reaction to criticism of President Nixon's most recently announced troop withdrawal plans, Buckley said the criticism "was entirely predictable. No matter what he said, it would have happened."

He declined official comment on the Lt. Calley verdict, saying he didn't think it proper while the judicial verdict is in process, but added he thought it would be "unnatural that the President wouldn't take this interest."

Buckley took a swipe at the (former) Johnson administration, saying that the problems with the economy resulted from his "guns and butter" program. And he added that it was premature to say we are on our way out of these problems "until we have a few months behind us."

When asked whether he thought the U.S. funding of an SST program was really dead, Buckley responded that he felt it was only a matter of time before American SSTs are made if foreign planes are put into use here.

He answered another questioner by saying that President Nixon had not proposed a freeze on building wages, but instead guidelines and "pressures."

And he drew a chuckle from the dinner crowd of about 450 persons when he noted that he was in favor of day care centers as part of the welfare reform package so that mothers could work, but was not in favor of their general government support for everyone as proposed by "Women's Lib."

The senator's prepared text was primarily a call for individual initiative, a lessening of the spending power of centralized government, and attacks on the "bureaucratic paralysis" brought about by rampant socialism.

It was noted in introductory remarks that Buckley has received about 2,000 invitations to speak since November and had resolved to accept "less than a dozen."

Terming current welfare and federal housing programs an "unmitigated disaster," he proceeded to announce that the federal government operates more than 500 grants in aid, often at cross-purposes.

And he said that these have developed their own "vested interests," and will be very difficult to dislodge.

He heartily endorsed the bulk of President Nixon's State of the Union message calling for decentralized powers of government while adding that there are some points on which he doesn't agree with the President.

And Buckley concluded his remarks by addressing himself to the members of the MHIA particularly and giving them a three-point program to help toward his goals: work in politics; work hand-in-hand with local government officials; energize citizens to do things for themselves.

And a parting shot summarized his ostensible intentions: "Don't wait for George to do it, becuase he will turn out to be another federal bureaucrat."

AND THEY'RE OFF — While all cities in the state, including Kingston, look for new ways to get added revenue, New York City took what officials hope will be the first step Thursday when Off-Track Betting was initiated. Even Bigger City Budget Gap Triggers Barrage From Koenig

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Mayor Francis R. Koenig leveled a bitter blast at state fiscal policy makers today after learning Thursday that the city's budget gap won't be $200,000 as reported, but $330,500.

"They made a moral commitment to us," Koenig said at a press conference in his city hall office, "and they haven't lived up to it. They balanced their budget at the expense of the cities."

Koenig's 1971 budget, as a result, is now seriously out of balance, short by more than $330,000.

Koenig was in Albany yesterday with mayors from the capital district and counties surrounding Ulster (to the north) at a meeting called by the New York State Conference of Mayors (our only lobby in Albany," Koenig said) to get the facts on anticipated revenue gaps brought about by the legislature's cutting of Gov. Rockefeller's proposed budget.

It was bad news all the way for Kingston's mayor. "We'll get approximately $878,000" (in state aid per capita), Koenig said, "which is about 28 per cent less than what was promised last summer." That represents a loss in revenue of about $272,000, according to the mayor.

Also cut were revenues from traffic transportation, youth recreation and hometown beautification projects, for a total loss of about $58,500.

And the final figures aren't in. "We won't be able to tell for sure for awhile," Koenig said. "They're still putting bills in the hopper."

Koenig was joined at today's press conference by John Houghtaling, deputy city treasurer, one of the key fiscal advisors in his cabinet.

Koenig ruled out a "deficit" city budget for fiscal 1971 whereby the city would maintain spending as planned, run a deficit, and pick it up in the 1972 budget. "I don't believe in working with a deficit," the mayor said. "Deficits only compound your problems," Houghtaling added.

Which means that Koenig will be cutting back, even more so than originally expected when the deficit was estimated at "only" $200,000. While Koenig said he could not say exactly at this point where the cuts in the city budget would come, he said he has ordered a freeze on the purchase of all new city equipment.

He did, however, rule out layoffs from the existing city work force of some 300 persons, "at this time." If the cuts to the beautification program and the aid to youth program hold, however, the city's hiring of summer (youth) help will be severely curtailed.

Koenig not only assailed the state's failure to come up with promised funding, but also attacked the timing. "Most of the cities are on a January to December fiscal year," he explained. "The state is on an April to March fiscal year. They knew back in the fall (of last year) that it would be an impossibility to come up with the money they promised us. But yet they waited until the last minute to advise us, knowing our fiscal years were different. They shouldn't have waited this long."

"We have to work with the figures the state gives us," Koenig said. "You can't trust the state."

"Only time will tell the full impact of the state's balancing its budget at the expense of local government," Koenig concluded.

White House Denies Timetable

Two Views on Withdrawal Date

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House and the Senate's top Republican have split publicly on whether President Nixon has indicatde a target date for withdrawal from Vietnam.

GOP Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., and Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd both say they believe President Nixon plans total withdrawal by Jan. 20, 1973, the last day of his current term.

But the White House said the President has no specific deadline.

Scott and Byrd said in separate news conferences Nixon gave them the impression of having a final Vietnam pullout date when he briefed congressional leaders prior to his nationwide address Wednesday night.

That briefing also prompted Republican Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, a longtime critic of the war, to attack Nixon.

Hatfield said he got no such impression in listening to Nixon's speech, adding "It is very poor . . . for the President to speak in such camouflaged language so that the American people aren't quite clear" on his Vietnam intentions.

The White House reacted initially to Scott's comments with a reference to the President's speech, in which he rejected setting a fixed terminal date.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops carry out scattered harassing attacks including another sapper strike. This and other related Indochina stories on Page 26.

Later, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters "I think it would be incorrect to say at this time that the President has a specific date that he feels his planned U.S. withdrawal will be completed by."

The Pennsylvania Republican made clear his belief that Nixon spoke in a different view in the briefing.

"I am more pleased by what I heard in the briefing," than in the speech, he said.

Byrd, who along with House Speaker Carl Albert was one of the two Democrats at the briefing, conveyed a similar impression.

"He (Nixon) did not state a definite date," the West Virginia Democrat said, "but I had the very definite impression from what was said that the President has a date in mind."

Asked if the date was by the end of his term, Byrd replied "I think that is substantially correct as I understood the President."

Hatfield responded to Byrd's comments by noting that Nixon has attacked proposals to set a fixed withdrawal date as playing into the hands of the enemy. Hatfield is sponsoring an amendment to force all U.S. troops out by the end of 1971.

"Why isn't this playing into the hands of the enemy?" the Oregon Republican asked.

10 Hurt in Area Crashes

By WALTER S. CLARK

TOWN OF ULSTER

Ten persons were injured in traffic accidents that were investigated by area authorities Thursday and early today.

Thruway state police reported five persons were injured at 7:10 a.m. today when the car in which they were riding went out of control on the superhighway one mile north of the Kingston Interchange and rolled down an embankment in this township.

Trooper John Ryan reported the vehicle was driven by Ernst Wilson, 26, of 645 East 14th Street, New York City, who was northbound at the time of the roll over of the vehicle. Wilson was cited by Ryan for driving at a speed not reasonable and prudent.

Ryan sustained lacerations of the head. Passengers in the car and their injuries were Michael Wilson, 22, of 7 Columbus Avenue, Spring Valley, lacerations of the scale; William Plimpton, 24, of 153 First Avenue, New York City, cuts of the forehead and nose; Micheline Van Deuvre, 25, of 645 East 14th Street, New York City, injuries of the arms and back, and Renee Del Forge, 22, of 147 Woodlawn Avenue, Staten Island, whose injuries were not listed.

The five were taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance Service.

Leeds state police reported that Arthur Emmighausen, 21, of 325 Fairwood Circle, Rochester, was seriously injured at 2:55 a.m. today when the truck he was driving crashed into a bridge abutment after leaving Route 145 near Cornwallville Road, Town of Durham.

Trooper A. J. Peterson's report noted the truck was eastbound at the time. Emmighausen was taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital in Catskill and treated for fractures of the left leg and left collarbone.

Meanwhile, Kingston state police reported 14-year-old William Detschel of 17 Hemlock Lane, Saugerties, was injured at 7:20 p.m. Thursday when he was hit by a car as he ran from the shoulder of Route 9W one-half mile north of Route 32 in the Town of Saugerties.

The boy was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Saugerties Ambulance Service. He suffered multiple lacerations of the head and contusions of the pelvis and hip, according to a report of Trooper G. R. Van Allen.

The car was operated by Jeffrey Knauth, 27, of RD 6, Kingston, who told police he was southbound on the highway when the boy darted into the path of the vehicle.

Kingston troopers also investigated a two-car crash that occurred at 1:15 p.m. Thursday on Neighborhood Road at Fairdale Road, Town of Ulster. The vehicles were driven by James Christiana, 18, of Mt. Marion, and 23-year-old Patricia Duffy of 75 Garden Street, Kingston, police reported.

Christiana was southbound on Neighborhood Road when the other vehicle reportedly pulled out of Fairdale Road into the path of the Mt. Marion youth's car.

Christiana sustained contusions of the nose. The other driver received contusions of the head and forehead and a possible cerebral concussion. A passenger in her car, Mrs. Anne Duffy, 57, suffered chest lacerations, contusions of the left shoulder and a possible cerebral concussion.

The woman operator was cited by Trooper J. C. Mikesh for failure to yield the right of way. The summons is returnable before Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly.

Await Decision On KURA, C-H Case

ALBANY

A decision on a motion to reopen the urban renewal-Central Hudson underground power line case is expected next Thursday from the State Court of Appeals.

Motions were made to reopen the case before the court on Monday but no decision was handed down on Thursday, the day the court usually announces its decisions.

Some $90,000 is involved in the suit between the agency and the utility involving the payment of the differential between the cost of underground and overhead power lines in the Broadway East project.

The Appellate Court ruled 3-2 against the agency in the case in December of 1968. The agency appealed the case to the Court of Appeals shortly after but failed to prosecute the case for more than two years. A motion to dismiss was granted by the state's highest court on those grounds last December.

John Davison represents the agency in the proceedings. Walter Bossert is the utility's attorney. Bossert is opposing Davison's motion to reopen.

$200,000 Trailer Park Approved by Esopus Board

PORT EWEN

The proposed 117-unit trailer park, a $200,000 project at Hudson Lane, Port Ewen on 32 acres in the River Road area was approved at Thursday night's session of Esopus Town Planning Board.

Approval is subject to County Health Department acceptance and a favorable report of the town engineer.

Gerald K. Abrams of Hyde Park is the developer of the park which will be a self-sustaining community with its own sewage and water system. Plans call for storage of 50,000 gallons of water in underground tanks and all piping, plumbing and electric service to be installed underground will be provided by the developer at no expense to the town. Abrams described it as one of the largest controlled projects of its kind in the Hudson Valley. A master contract with trailer owners will have stringent rules for upkeep. There will be a resident manager at the site.

The Planning Board was informed that there will be laundry and recreational facilities, and the entire area will be landscaped. The developer will also provide snowplowing service. The site work and preparations will be contracted to Project Management System Inc., environmental scientists and engineers of Westchester, Pa.

The firm will confer with Otto Thoden, town superintendent of highways in regard to drainage easements and other road requirements. The developer indicated that the project would more than meet the standards of town requirements.

The master contract with trailer owners would include the penalty of eviction from the site if sanitary and upkeep requirements are not met.

In other business, Chester DuMond, announced his intetntion to resign as chairman effective upon the adoption or rejection of town zoning. A public hearing is scheduled on the proposed zoning law Monday 7:30 p. m. at the town hall, Port Ewen.

Ulster at the Crossroads

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

LAKE KATRINE

The Town of Ulster has reached a crossroad in its continued use of the Lake Katrine Grange Hall for town offices.

The decision stage was reached at Thursday night's Town Board meeting when the Lake Katrine Grange No. 1065 members notified the town that they are raising the rental fee for use of the first floor to the building on Leggs Mills Road from $100 to $200 per month effective June 1.

The fee just covers the floor space. The town provides heat, light, maintenance and janitorial services.

Supervisor Carmine Sabino said the Town Board will discuss the matter in executive session and will inform the grange of its decision. There were observations of alternatives, not part of the official record of the meeting, indicating that the town offices could be moved to another site if the rental cost factor is considered too great.

Earlier this year, a town referendum for the construction of a $350,000 town building was defeated 844-702.

A communication from State Sen. Jay P. Rolison asked the town to make a Home Rule request to permit the sale of its 65-acre town park to Ulster County. The site to be used by the county for recreation purposes has been negotiated for $20,000 and now requires an act of the State Legislature for the transfer of title.

Supervisor Sabino said a petition with 78 names has been prepared complaining of noise associated with the blasting of rock on a property site at the rear of Andy's Furniture. Sabino said Gene Massa is preparing the land for a project. The petition notes that blasting is heard Saturdays, Sundays and holidays and as late as 1 a.m. He said the Town Board and Town Attorney William Pretsch will meet with representatives of the developer today to review the matter. He said the town will possibly file an information for legal action.

Supervisor Sabino said the state auditors have completed their audit of town accounts and complimented the town on its procedures and the efficient operation of town government.

In accorance with several requests, the town will ask the State Transportation Department for establishment of 30 mile-per-hour speed zones on side streets entering Albany Avenue Mall from the city line to Boices Lane.

The board by resolution authorized Town Clerk Alma Frederick to make application with the State Department of Education for permission to dispose of certain town papers such as cancelled checks, bank statements and chattel mortgages as permitted by law. Some are 15 to 20 years old and are stored in various locations.

The board set Saturday 1 p.m. for review of a variance request from Ralph Van Kleeck for a mobile home park on Route 28 near Johnson Ford Inc., There are now three mobile homes on the site and Van Kleeck is asking for additional space.

Passover, Crucifixion of Christ

Jews Celebrate, Christians Mourn

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Israel celebrated the beginning of Judaism's most joyous festival today while mourning Christians retraced through the narrow alleys of this ancient walled city Jesus Christ's route to death upon the cross.

For Jews throughout the world, today marked the beginning of the eight-day feast of Passover (Pesach) which celebrates the delivery of the Hebrews from 210 years of slavery in Egypt.

The Christian world plunged into its deepest mourning to mark the day Christ died upon the cross on Calvary. It culminates Easter Sunday with joyous celebrations marking his arising from the dead.

Many Tourists This Year

Tourist ministry officials said the two religious celebrations had drawn the biggest influx of tourists to the Holy Land since the 1967 Middle East war.

All hotels in Israel and Israeli-occupied Jerusalem were booked solid weeks in advance.

Passover commemorates the deliverance of the Jews from slavery in 1300 B.C. According to the Bible, Moses led the tribes of Israel from Egypt after God brought down ten plagues upon Egypt.

In their haste to leave, the Israelites carried with them the dough which had not yet risen and leavened. During their flight, they baked this into flat cakes, matzoth, under the hot desert sun.

For the next eight days religious Jews will not eat or drink anything made from flour or from fermented grain. The beginning of the holiday saw the disappearance from market shelves of flour products and beer and liquor made from fermented grain.

For the past two weeks Israel's matzoth factories had worked overtime producing the wafers to supply the local and export markets.

Begins at Sundown

The Jewish celebrations begin at sundown with the seder, the traditional holiday feast and the reading of the Hagadah—literally the tale of the Passover.

The first two days and the last two days of Passover are full public holidays in Israel and the middle four days are semi-holidays, when workers traditionally work only half-days.

Inside the walls that Herod built around the old city, Christians dressed in mourning black chanted the dirges for the dead and re-enacted Christ's journey to his crucifixion along the Via Dolorosa—the road of pain.

Led by a pilgrim carrying a replica of the cross, Christians from all over the world followed in sorrowful procession, stopping as Christ stopped at the stations of the cross.

The Basilica of the Holy Sepulcher, which tradition says marks the site where Christ was buried and arose from the dead, was draped in mourning black.

On Sunday it will emerge from mourning with the joyous message that Christ has arisen.

Penn Central RR Makes Accusations

$1 Million Theft Charged to Former Execs

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) —A tiny, 15-mile spur railroad in Illinois and a New Jersey businessman stole 277 boxcars valued at $1 million from the nation's largest railroad, the Penn Central charged Thursday.

The bankrupt line also accused two of its former high executives with losing millions of the railroad's dollars in a conspiracy to gain personal profits.

The trustees of the railroad, who are supervising its reorganization under bankruptcy laws, made the accusations in a petition and a suit filed in U.S. District Court.

The petition demanded return of the 277 boxcars.

Charged with stealing the boxcars in the petition were the 15-mile La Salle and Bureau County Railroad, of La Salle, Ill.; Joseph C. Bonanno of Essex Fells, N.J.; Diversified Properties Inc. and Magna Earth Enterprises Inc., two companies controlled by Bonanno which lease property along the line, and Anthony Crisafi, employe of Bonanno.

The petition said the three firms and the two officials caused shipment of the boxcars to the La Salle railroad, which interconnects with the Penn Central.

"They thereafter repainted and renumbered most of these 277 boxcars to reflect markings and numbers" of the La Salle line, the petition said, and retained the cars "for their own use and benefit."

Judge John P. Fullam, supervisor of the Penn Central reorganization, set a hearing on the box car question June 2.

Bonanno and Crisafi already have appeared before a federal grand jury investigating the disappearance of the box cars. The grand jury has not indicted anyone.

E. Robert Levy, Bonanno's attorney, said Thursday Diversified had possession of the cars under an agreement with Penn Central. He blamed the problem on Penn Central's inefficient accounting and inventory.

The suit asked damages to be specified by the court from David C. Bevan, former chairman of the Penn Central Finance Committee; William R. Gerstnecker, Philadelphia, a former vice president of the railroad; and Charles J. Hodge, a partner in the investment company of F. I. DuPont Glore Forgan Inc.

The trustees suit contended Bevan, Gerstnecker and Hodge formed an investment company called Penphil. It said they caused the Penn Central to make massive investments in companies in which the Penphil also had investments. As a result, the suit said, Penphil's stockholders made 600 per cent profits, while the Penn Central lost millions of dollars.

The suit said the defendants advised the railroad to invest in Great Southwest Realty Corp., and Executive Jet Aviation.

The original $92 million investment in Great Southwest depreciated $40 million and the Penn Central lost all the $22 million it put into the aviation company.

The suit said the railroad's collapse into bankruptcy June 8 was hastened by the bad investments. It asked the court to set damages.

Brezhnev, Podgorny Emerge With Top Jobs in Soviet Union

MOSCOW (AP) — Communist Party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev was confirmed in the Soviet Union's top job today but Nikolai V. Podgorny emerged as the country's No. 2 man.

Podgorny, shunted off to the ceremonial role of president of the Soviet Union six years ago, was listed right after Brezhnev in the ruling Politburo announced by the party chief at the close of the 24th party congress. Podgorny's advancement pushed Premier Alexei N. Kosygin down to third place.

There was no immediate indication of the reason for the change in precedence. Kosygin, spokesman in the inner circle for the nation's economic managers, had held second place in the Politburo listing since the last congress in 1966.

Brezhnev announced that the party's Central Committee has added four veteran party workers to the ruling Politburo, bringing the total membership to 15.

Three of the men had been among the nine candidate or junior, nonvoting members of the Politburo. They are Viktor V. Grishin, chief of the Moscow party; Dinmukhamed A. Kunayev, first secretary of the party in Kazakhstan and a protege of Bezhnev, and Vladimir V. Shcherbitsky, premier of the Ukraine.

The fourth is Fyodor D: Kulakov, the party secretariat's specialist in agriculture.

Despite the advancement of Grishin, Kunayev and Shcherbitsky, three places among the candidate members were not filled.

Brezhnev also announced that he had been unanimously re-elected general secretary of the party, an action that had been expected.

Brezhnev's speech closed the 24th congress, which met for 10 days and endorsed the Soviet leadership's policies. Foreign newsmen were barred from the sessions, but official announcements of the proceedings added little to plans and policies already announced.

The order in which he listed the enlarged Politburo indicated that in addition to Kosygin's demotion to third place, Alexander N. Shelepin, the ambitious former secret police chief who is also the youngest man in the group, had dropped from seventh to 11th place.

Brezhnev read out the names in this order: Brezhnev, Podgorny, Kosygin, Mikhail A. Suslov, Andrei P. Kirilenko, Arvid Y. Pelshe, Nirill T. Mazurov, Dmitry S. Polyansky, Pyotr Y. Shelest, Gennady I. Voronov, Shelepin, Grishin, Kunayev, Shcherbitsky and Kulakov.

The retention of all previous 11 members reinforced the impression, cultivated throughout the 24th congress, of stability and continuity at the top. This was heightened by the announcement that the 10-man party secretariat, which deals day to day with internal party questions, would be unchanged.

The party chief said the more than 100 foreign parties represented at the congress "unanimously approve our course," apparently including the anti-Chinese remarks made by many of the speakers.

He characterized the foreign policy line laid down at the congress as one of "peace and international security."

Ping Pong Invite Gets Official View

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Red China's invitation to an American table tennis team to visit Peking is being viewed by the State Department as a serious signal the Chinese want improved relations with the United States.

Department officials say they expect no quick, dramatic changes in relations, but they believe Peking may make a new move in the future to follow up the invitation.

The team, which was competing at the 31st World Table Tennis Championships in Japan, was to leave today for Hong Kong. From there the team will travel to China and, presumably, fly to Peking.

The team is due to return to Hong Kong April 16.

State Department officials stressed the Chinese do not engage in spontaneous invitations to American athletic teams or performers and that this move should be considered a significant indication Peking is responding to American moves for improved relations.

Some officials believe the invitation may have been approved by Premier Chou En-Lai. These officials go so far as to suggest the invitation shows Chou seems to have tightened his grasp on government power —a grasp which during the last several years was thought to have been weakening.

Stewart Jetport Supporters Plan Rally April 21

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (UPI) — Supporters of a proposed major jetport at Stewart Airfield plan a rally here April 21.

Stanley Levinson, a local businessman, said a petition with the signatures of 15,000 residents favoring the jetport plan would be presented at the rally at Mount St. Mary's College.

Studies have been proposed in Washington to determine the future of the former air force base. Suggestions range from using it for cargo handling to transforming it into a fourth major jetport for the Metropolitan New York area.

Youth Shoots 3; Dog Bites Pair In City Squabble

NEW YORK (UPI)—A 13-year-old boy shot three neighbors and his dog bit two of them during a dispute Thursday between two families in Brooklyn, police said.

Almanes Crenshaw, 61, was shot twice in the stomach; his wife, Elizabeth, 68, was shot in the left shoulder, and their son, Donnall, was shot in the arm and side, police said. The boy's dog, a German shepherd, bit the mother and son on their legs. The dog was shot and killed by Patrolman Robert Scire after Scire was bitten on the arm.

Scire was treated for dog bite. Almanes Crenshaw was listed in satisfactory condition today in Wyckoff Heights Hospital and his wife and son both were in fair condition.

The 13-year-old boy was arrested on a juvenile delinquency charge. His name was not revealed because of his age.

Westchester Miss Judged State Queen

GREENFIELD PARK, N. Y. (UPI)—A 23-year - old student was chosen Miss New York State Thursday to represent the state in the Miss U.S.A. Beauty Pageant later this spring.

Miss Barbara Joan Lopez of Yorktown Heights, a senior at Beaver College in Pennsylvania, was crowned winner of the pageant.

The runner - up was Maureen Hanrahan, 24, of Garden City.

Miss Lopez, a 5-8 brunette with perfect measurements of 35-23-35, last year studied at the University of Madrid.

Quiet Copter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hughes Tool Co. has announced development of what it calls the world's most quiet helicopter—a modification of the turbine-powered, four-seat Army OH6A light observation helicopter.

The firm said the development had been kept secret for security reasons in Vietnam where the craft has been used for scouting. It said the helicopter is scarcely audible even when directly overhead and its development will help urban noise abatement.

Extra Service

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI)—An Evanston pizza parlor is offering a last-minute income tax service for people ordering pizzas April 15.

Jerry Herman, the owner, said Thursday, "when our delivery boys deliver your pizza, they will also pick up and mail your tax return before midnight."

Canada Housing Costs

OTTAWA (UPI) — Housing prices in Canada rose 10 per cent between February, 1970, and February, 1971, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday.

The increase was almost entirely due to a 17.2 per cent increase in construction industry wages, the bureau said.

The Medicaid Aborts — State Rules Out Fees

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) —Doctors and hospitals in New York State will no longer be paid for doing abortions on Medicaid patients.

State Social Services Director George K. Wyman Thursday issued a letter to local commissioners halting the use of Medicaid fees for the operations.

A spokesman for the department said 1,850 abortions have been performed upstate with Medicaid money since last July. In the New York City area the number was expected to be several times that.

An abortion under Medicaid costs about $200, with doctors fees ranging from $64 to $80 of that.

Wyman's letter came one day after Governor Rockefeller was given legal control over the commissioner and less than a week after a state senator said he had decided to vote for the state budget if Rockefeller would order a halt to the use of Medicaid fees for abortions.

A spokesman for the department said Wyman's letter was a clarification of a state ruling which has always banned medicaid fees for abortions. But he declined to say why the letter was sent out after the liberalized abortion law had been in effect for nine months and thousands of abortions had been performed and paid for by the state.

Wyman said the state will pay for abortions only if they are necessary for serious medical reason.

This will mean that in the case of medicaid patients, the old law permitting abortions only when the mother's life is in danger will be in effect.

In the words of the permanent order, abortions will be permitted only in cases of "acute suffering" or where life is endangered.

The dispute over medicaid fees for abortions began in the heat of the budget debate last week when Sen. James Donovan, R - Chadwicks, announced the governor's pledge was one of the reasons he decided to vote for the budget.

Rockefeller's staff denied hearing of any such promise. But the reports were so persistent that a coalition of women's groups demonstrated at the Capitol Wednesday opposing the idea.

Donovan said the promise was made at a meeting in Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson's office a few days before the budget debate.

"He recognized the sensitivity of this issue," Donovan said, "and said there was to be an order drawn suspending the payments for 90 days."

Asked who would take the action, Donovan replied, "He (Rockefeller) said he would."

Donovan said he is committed to a Senate floor debate on his bills to deny medicaid payments for abortions and to repeal the new abortion reform law entirely. Donovan's first bill apparently won't be needed in view of Wyman's order.

Rockefeller has let it be known he would veto any bill which would substantially weaken the liberalized abortion law. The governor has come out in favor of lowering the time limit during which an abortion can be performed to the first 20 weesk of pregnancy, instead of the current 24 weeks deadline.

DeMartinos Seek Reversal

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mr. and Mrs. Nick DeMartino have turned to the federal courts in an attempt to reverse a state order that they must return a 10-months-old girl they hoped to adopt to her natural mother.

Jacob Fuchsberg, their attorney, told the U.S. District Court Thursday the Brooklyn couple may have been unconstitutionally excluded from the custody trials over the girl.

Fuchsberg's request for a show cause order was ruled improperly drawn, however, and he was told to resubmit it.

The DeMartinos are attempting to overturn the State Court of Appeals ruling which directed them to return the child, Lenore, to her mother, Olga Scarpetta, of Colombia.

The South American woman sought to reclaim her daughter June 23, 1970, five days after the DeMartinos got custody of the child through an adoption agency.

At a news conference, Mrs. DeMartino said, "I will go as far as any mother would to protect her child."

Fuchsberg contended that under New York State laws "Adoptive parents have second class citizen rights."

"If the New York decision is allowed to stand," he said, "it would mean that adoptive parents who have given a child love and care almost from the time of her birth have no standing even to present proof as to what is in the best interests of the baby."

Couple Asks Return of Adopted Girl

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A Western New York couple asked an appeals court Thursday to return to them a baby girl they adopted 10 months ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary McAlpine of South Dayton asked the State Supreme Court's Appeallate Division to overturn an order returning the infant to her mother.

The McAlpines lost custody of the infant, named Mary Kate, five weeks ago. The McAlpines said the mother, Judith A. Musso, 22, of Olean, surrendered the infant to them shortly after birth.

Frank P. Dela Posta, lawyer for the McAlpines, charged that Judge Edwin G. O'Connor of Chautauqua County should have disqualified himself because he knew Miss Musso's father. O'Connor, acting as a Supreme Court Justice, ordered the return.

Dela Posta said O'Connor also refused to permit him to ask important questions of witnesses or to examine Miss Musso's background.

Willard Cass, representing Miss Musso, said he did not think he had to defend O'Connor.

"He's an experienced trial judge and has had cases like this before," Cass said.

Cass said Miss Musso had worked her way through college as a Thruway toll collector and had gained an excellent record as a teacher in Hornell.

The State Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday that a child adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas DeMartino of Brooklyn should be returned to her mother. Dela Posta argued that the two cases were different in many respects.

McAlpine, a Cattaraugus County deputy sheriff, and his wife sat in the rear of the court room accompanied by a small group of relatives and backers. Miss Musso was not present.

The five-judge appeals court said it would expedite its decision in the case.

N. Y. Drug Squad–Shocking Data

NEW YORK (UPI)—Members of the Police Department's narcotics squad said Thursday the unit was so ill-equipped and demoralized that agents had to chase suspects with their own cars and often wasted valuable time looking for pay telephones because they lack communications equipment.

"Shocking," said Joseph Fisch, counsel for the State Investigation Commission (SIC). "In view of this city's $8 billion budget, this is unbelievable."

The SIC closed its first week of hearings Thursday into narcotics enforcement in the New York area. SIC Chairman Paul J. Curran claimed the division concentrated too much on arresting addicts on the street and not enough on the heroin activities of organized crime.

Members of the narcotics division's special investigation unit said they are required to use their private automobiles in watching suspects. For this they are provided 100 gallons of gasoline and $40 a month.

"We with our Chevys, Fords and Volkswagens, are often required to chase high powered Caddies and Buicks," said a veteran of the unit identified only as "Detective M."

He estimated the unit lost about 80 per cent of its surveillance because of inadequate communications.

"We run around trying to find a public telephone that works and by the time you find one the suspect is gone," he said.

Other problems brought out in the testimony:

—Chief Detective Lt. John Egan said his squad was promised a sophisticated communications system in 1966 but never got it.

—Egan said his unit has had to go to the federal narcotics bureau for the necessary communication equipment.

—Others said the group is so ill-equipped that the 67-member staff has only two binoculars and its only surveillance truck is used so often it "is known all over town."

—There is so little money that only a few bags of illicit drugs can be bought as evidence. Curran said although 7,266 heroin purchases were made during 1970, the total weight of the purchases amounted to only 4.97 pounds.

State Appeals Warns Courtroom Disrupters

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — In a warning to those who would disrupt courtroom activities, the state's highest court has told spectators they must remain "absolutely silent non-actors." In a unanimous decision, the Court of Appeals Thursday upheld the contempt of court conviction of Alvin Katz, who stood up during a Black Panther trial in New York City, gave a clenched fist salute and shouted "Power to the People." He was sentenced to 30 days.

"The court is not a public hall for the expression of views, nor is it a political arena or a street," Judge Charles D. Brietel said.

"It is a place for trial of defined issues in accordance with law and rules of evidence, with standards of demeanor for court, jurors, parties, witnesses and counsel.

"All others are absolutely silent non-actors with the right only to use their eyes and ears," he said.

When brought before the court to explain his outburst, Katz said "I don't recognize this court as representing the people, and therefore I have no respect for this court, and I will say what I feel like saying because this is what I believe in." The court rejected Katz' argument that his conduct did not constitute contempt as defined by the law.

"It is enough that by rising and raising his arm he joined in an unequivocal demonstration of disrespect designed only to interrupt the proceedings," Brietel said.

Three School Board Candidates File Petitions in Saugerties

SAUGERTIES

The Concerned Taxpayers Party, a newly formed organization announced that it has filed nominating petitions for a slate of three candidates for positions on Saugerties Central School Board.

The School Board election will be held Wednesday, May 5 from 12 noon to 9 p.m. at Main Street School.

The Concerned Taxpayers slate includes Grant Earl Benjamin of West Saugerties; Robert Francello of Barclay Street and Peter Kramer of Malden-on-Hudson. Benjamin is vice president of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union, AFL-CIO. Francello, an attorney, is assistant counsel for the State Narcotic Addiction Control Commission, and Kramer is assistant professor, Department of Physical Education at State University, New Paltz. Benjamin and Francello are life-long residents of Saugerties and Kramer has resided in the community for the past eight years.

The announcement of the new party notes that all three candidates have been active in the community and have expressed concern for the educational system in Saugerties. They are willing to devote their time and energy towards the improvement of the system and believe that their special skills and talents in the areas of negotiations, law and education can play a significant role in furthering a wholesome educational climate These men seek community support and promise their loyalty in their endeavors, the announcement concluded.

Incumbent board members whose terms expire June 30 are John H. Bragg of Blue Mountain; Charles P. Emerick of West Camp and Robert Herb of Malden-on-Hudson. None of the three incumbents have filed nominating petitions to date.

The deadline for filing is Wednesday, April 21. Petitions must be signed by at least 25 qualified voters of the district. Petition forms are available at the district office in the administration building on Hill Street. The positions are for three year terms.

The annual meeting of the school district will be held Tuesday, May 4 at 7:30 p.m. in Saugerties High School auditorium for the approval of the school budget.

The public hearing on the proposed $5,573,343.54 budget has been scheduled for Tuesday April 20 at 7:30 p.m. in Saugerties High School auditorium The preliminary budget has an estimated school tax rate of 128.07 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

The current budget of $5,147,[illegible]7 has a tax rate of $124.75.

In a report earlier this week was incorrectly noted that the current tax rate was $118.78. The actual tax rate for the current year is $124.75.

The preliminary budget was approved by the Board of Education April 5 and at that time Anthony Riozzi, board president, stressed that the proposed new tax rate is an estimate due to unknown factors at this time relating to state aid expected and the total property assessment figure. Also affecting the tax rate will be the cash balance of the current budget which will not be known until the end of the school year, he said.

Mrs. Davis Appointed Postmaster at Accord

MRS. LILLIAN H. DAVIS

WASHINGTON

The appointment of Mrs. Lillian H. Davis as Postmaster at Accord, New York (12404) was announced today by Harold R. Larsen, Director of the New York Postal Service Region.

Prior to her appointment, Mrs. Davis served as Acting Postmaster at the Accord Post Office. She joined the Postal Service in 1966.

In accordance with the merit selection procedures of the Postal Reorganization Act, Mrs. Davis was nominated for the postmastership by the New York Regional Management Selection Board, and appointed by Posmaster General Winston Blount. The appointment is not subject to Senate confirmation.

Two Bills Introduced by Fish

WASHINGTON

Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr. today joined with some 80 members of the House of Representatives in introducing a bi-partisan measure to protect the individual's right to privacy from undue record keeping and prying by Federal agencies.

"The need for such legislation to protect the individual's right to privacy has been underscored by recent disclosures before Congressional Committees by Federal agencies indicating information is being gathered on every aspect of many individual lives," Congressman Fish said.

"The right to privacy and the imposition of limitations on the government's ability to invade an individual's privacy has been the aim of constitutionalists from the foundation of our Republic," Congressman Fish said, "This bill if enacted should provide needed safeguards."

The legislation, known as the Federal Privacy bill, would rerequire notification to the individual that such a record exists, and would also require that the individual be notified of any transfer of such information.

Any Federal agency collecting such information would also need the consent of the individual for disclosure of any information, or when it was legally required.

If enacted, the legislation would also permit an individual to inspect his record, make copies of it, and add supplementary information if he felt such an addition was needed.

"Exceptions to the disclosure rule would only be made in cases of national security, and investigations for purposes of criminal prosecution," Rep. Fish said.

The bill, according to Congressman Fish, would act as a check on the government's record keeping, while allowing the government to collect necessary information, Fish said..

The 28th District Congressman has also introduced legislation to establish a Federal Loan Guaranty program to enable independent bus owners to modernize their fleets, it was announced today.

According to Fish, the bill which is patterned after the highly successful Aircraft Purchase Guarantee Program, is designed to allow bus operators to borrow for fleet improvement and upgrading from private lenders without the need of government subsidy.

Under the Fish bill, motorbus owners certified by the ICC would be permitted to purchase new buses with loans of stipulated amounts from private lenders, with the Secretary of the Department of Transportation being authorized to guarantee any lender against loss of principal and interest on such a commercial loan.

No loan could exceed 90 per cent of the unpaid principal and interest, with the total amount outstanding which could be guaranteed for any one carrier set at $1 million.

"The establishment of this program would permit the smaller, independent motorbus companies to obtain credit to purchase needed equipment to enable him to maintain and expand his service, particularly to the more rural areas if our country, which are not served by the major carriers," Congressman Fish said in introducing the legislation.

Congressman Fish pointed out that billions of Federal dollars have been poured into American highways, while there has been a general neglect of the intercity and mass transit systems.

Pleads Guilty to Reduced Charge

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP)— — A Newburgh man, on trial for murder, pleaded guilty Thursday to a reduced charge of second degree manslaughter in the fatal shooting of another Newburgh man.

Herman B. McMillan, 30, entered the plea in Orange County Court in the death last Nov. 15 of Moses Lee Goodwin, 33, at McMillan's home.

McMillan was jailed pending a probation hearing before sentencing.

Greek Stamp To Be Issued

KINGSTON

Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. and U.S. Sen. Jacob Javits, have endorsed issuance of a U.S. stamp commemorating the 150th anniversary of Greek Independence.

The proposed stamp is to portray the hero of the Greek revolution in 1821, General Theodore Kolocotronis.

James Kolocotronis of New Paltz, a marketing communications consultant, is a direct descendent.

Leveling-Off Jobless

Commissioner of Labor Statistics Geoffrey Moore had proposed discontinuing analysis and press briefings of the monthly labor statistics two years ago when he took office, but said he was dissuaded by his subordinates. When the briefings were terminated last month, Senator William Proxmire, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, called Moore and his assistant, Harold Goldstein, to analyze the figures before his committee—which was fully reported by the press.

The press briefings were discontinued to relieve the professionals of the "awkwardness" of attempting to answer policy questions when they disagreed with the opinions of their superiors. Proxmire, however, admonished Moore that, without expert analysis, "You're leaving this to the politicians—the politicians in the White House and the politicians on Capitol Hill." So long as the briefings are discontinued, he promised to call Bureau of Labor statistics officials before his committee—where they will face questions on unemployment and consumer price index, many of which the press furnished to the committee.

The statistics for March showed that unemployment advanced from 5.8 per cent to six per cent, after a two-month decline. The analysis furnished the committee was optimistic. Moore said it was "approximately right" to assume that unemployment is topping out at the six per cent level. The fact that it has remained in that area for the past five months is not inconsistent with idea that "a recovery is under way and has been for the past several months."

The altercation over press briefings heightened interest in the statistics and their meaning. For instance, total employment fell minimally—by only 62,000 jobs—but there has been a net loss of nearly a half million jobs over the past 12 months against an average annual gain of about 1.5 million in the late 1960s. Combined with an increase of nearly a million in the labor force from a year ago, this job loss resulted in unemployment rising from 3.7 million in March, 1970, to nearly 5.2 million last month. If that is bottom, as Moore said, the economy may be heading for recovery. But it is too soon to sing, "Happy Days Are Here Again."

Curbing Financial Losses

In the 30s, downhold was the name of the game. Corporations, beset by lower revenues and continuing high costs, resorted to cost curbs to hold down their expenses. Often, the curbs took the form of percentage cuts across the board. Employes accepted them as a choice of holding their jobs or being laid off.

Layoffs now have been general in the areo-space and the related industries, where programs have been cut such as the SST and space exploration, and also in textiles and shoes where imports have flooded the market. There has not been the kind of downhold that marked the 30s until Eastern Airlines asked its 31,500 employes to help curb its losses and avoid forced layoffs, by enabling it to eliminate hiring and overtime.

Eastern asked that employes be willing to shift both vacation and work periods to meet peak demands, and to work at different jobs at different times. The employes were agreeable, the result is that Eastern says it leads the industry in such vital yardsticks as lead factor and percentage of seat-miles actually sold. Nevertheless, total revenues are almost unchanged from last year while costs have accelerated sharply.

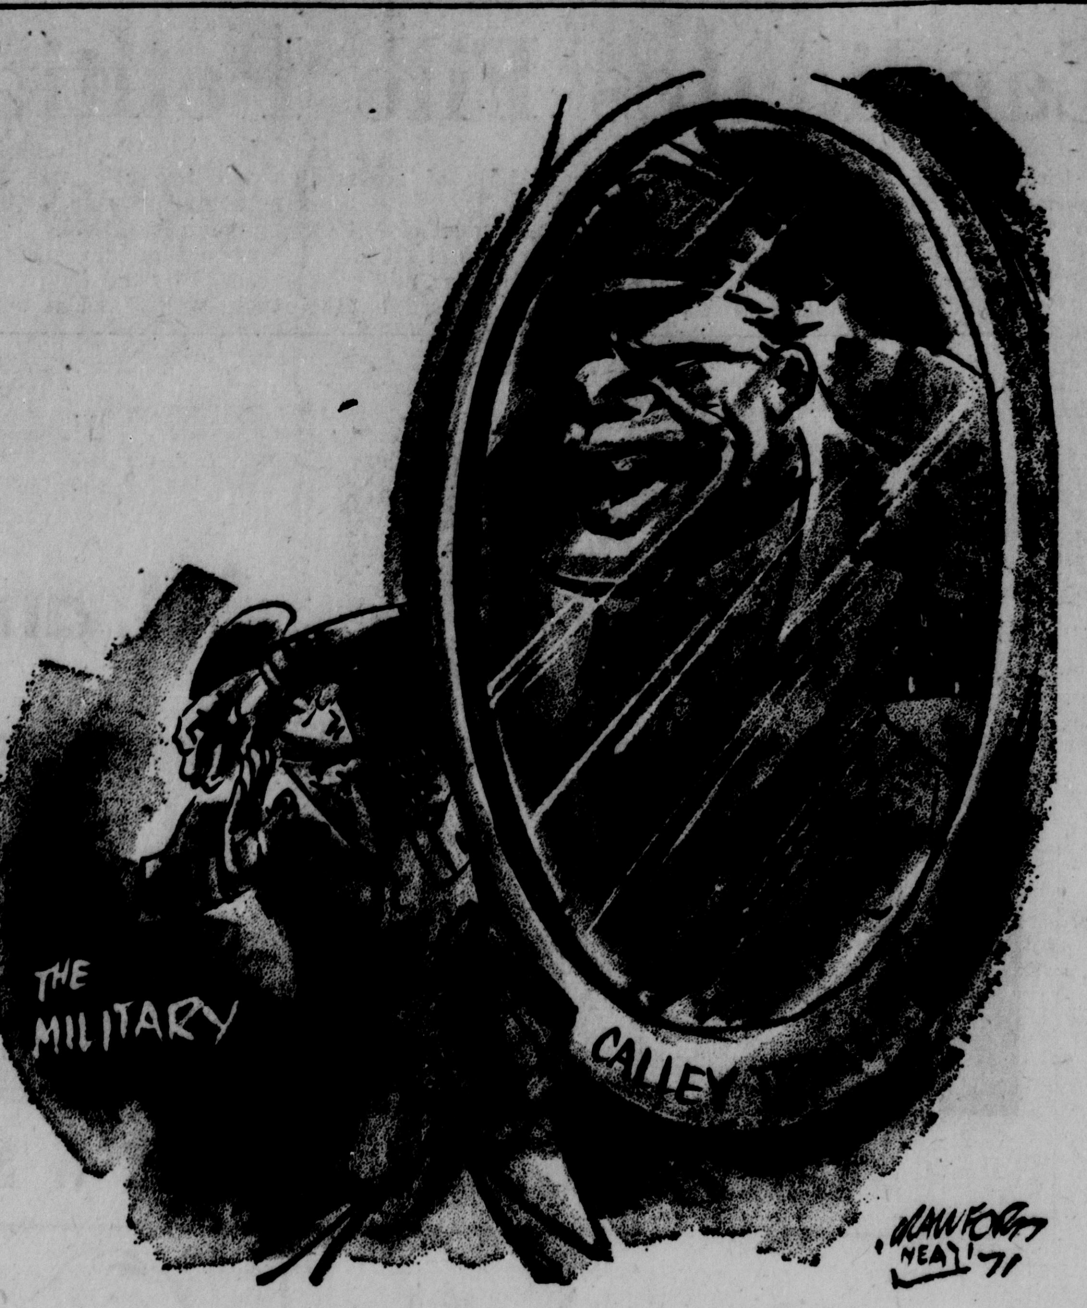
Severe economic problems are common in industry today. Such means of controlling costs will be more widespread with firms anxious to hold their workers intact and with workers who will work with their firms to save their jobs.

In view of all this, it is hard to understand today's drive of unions for wages that will force more and more of their members to be laid off to compensate for the higher wages the remaining workers get. The good of the many should outweigh the gain of the few.

Thomas P. Saines, a Yale assistant professor of law dismissed from serving on the jury that will try Black Panthers in New Haven, because he opposes capital punishment, sued the judge for "violating his right to serve as a citizen in the democratic process." The state has a right to protect itself against preconceived judgment, too.

Because Alan Ginsburg said her winning poem for the National Book Award was "mediocre," lady poet Mona Van Duyn, said two people could read the same rest room wall, but one would write about the obscenities and ignore the entwined hearts. The other would write about the hearts and ignore the obscenities. Score one against the filth to which we are subjected in "creative" writing today.

Army Capt. Floyd J. Thompson was captured in South Vietnam March 28, 1964. Others were captured earlier, but they gained freedom or died or were killed. Thompson now has been captive longer than any other American serviceman taken prisoner of war in history.



"Is This My Reflection?"

David Lawrence Says

Killing of Civilians Among Frightful War Experiences

WASHINGTON — Pentagon records show that there have been 59 "Calleys" convicted of murdering civilians in the South Vietnam war zone. Of the 115 men charged with murder, 81 were in the Army, 28 were Marines, five were in the Navy and one was in the Air Force. A total of 59 were found guilty of murder, 21 were convicted on lesser charges and 35 were acquitted, according to spokesman for the Defense Department.

To the military services it is not an unusual development during wartime, but the public heretofore has not known of the details. The big question is what is the motivation for the crimes that are committed. Are the servicemen moved by revenge because their comrades have been killed? Is there an emotional imbalance produced on the individual mind by war itself? Should not a military court of justice take into account all the psychiatric factors that produce irrational behavior on the part of armed servicemen in the middle of a war?

Since there have been so many episodes, one wonders why the My Lai massacre and Lt. William L. Calley's participation aroused so much attention. It must have been because of the dramatic nature of the affair and the fact that vivid stories of what happened were belatedly reported to the public at large.

From a military standpoint, however, the Calley case is just another incident in which armed servicemen kill civilians during the war. This has occurred in every war and probably will continue in the future. The mere possession of arms is sometimes dangerous in itself. Some individuals fire away without reason, prompted by a stimulus which they themselves cannot explain. It happens in everday life as murder after murder is reported in the press.

What was needed for the military trial of Calley was a separate examination by psychiatric experts. Many a person under war conditions uses arms who wouldn't ordinarily. A lot of the murders recorded in a war not necessarily ordered by officers, but are the result of the feeling of bitterness that arises against the enemy.

Unfortunately, the American people have not been able to read or judge for themselves the four months of testimony taken at the trial. They don't know what answers Lieutenant Calley made when asked why he fired at civilians, including a very young child. Other strange aspects of the case undoubtedly caused the attorneys to raise many questions which are in the record.

But when it comes time to render a verdict, the custom is to concentrate on one point: did he or did he not commit the murders? Whether there were extenuating circumstances or other understandable emotions which caused him to commit the crime does not always affect the final judgment. The public would probably get a much clearer impression of exactly what happended and why if it had an opportunity to read the record, and this is what President Nixon intends to do before he makes his final decision.

The inference to be drawn from the My Lai massacre is that it is not unlike others in which civilians have suffered, and that it is among the frightful experiences of war. No matter how well trained troops are, there is no telling what they will do under the stress of emotion when the firing starts and lives all around them, including their own, are endangered.

Perhaps no answer can be made to the questions raised in the Calley case except the abolition of war itself. To impose upon human beings the task of killing each other is to take a big risk that many of them will find themselves on the verge of insanity before the battles are over. Some combatants have never been the same after the stress suffered when their lives were imperiled.

What has been emphasized thus far about war have been the acts of heroism and bravery. But the Calley incident brings to the fore the fate that certain human beings face and which may remain with them long after the fighting has ceased. The impact of a war on the mind of a participant certainly is far more extensive than is generally realized, and the lives of veterans are often changed as a result of their tense experiences in wartime. The drive to end war needs the support of all people in the world, for it is the most humanitarian objective of our times.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

This is the time to think of summer vacation. Where? How much? Any place except home is a playground. The resident of Denver is not fascinated, as I am, at the huge shoulders of the Rocky Mountains. He would like two weeks in New York. The New Yorker yearns for mountains. The farmer is not enthralled with spongy meadows, cold running brooks and the hum of bees.

I dream of faraway places all the time. Vienna is a discreet kept woman; she bewilders me with the huge Danube, Strauss waltzes and pillows the size of sports cars. My wife and I stayed at the Imperial, Room 134, where Adolf Hitler stayed the night he swallowed Austria. The red damask still flames on the walls.

Or perhaps Hawaii, the love child of the world. At Makaha, you can lie on the grass among strutting peacocks and doze near mountains cloaked in a violet sunset. Or perch on a porch at the Ilikei and watch the moods change the face of the sea.

Heidelberg is another century. There, on a hill overlooking the Neckar River, are the ruins of a castle where a prince once asked his princess what she would like for her birthday. She said a stone arch. Between the time she retired that night, and the next morning, an ornate arch was built, with etched clusters of grapes, squirrels and acorns. The princess is gone. The castle is gone. The arch stands.

Hong Kong is an old Charley Chan movie. There are sampans, the hills of Victoria, the shops of Kowloon, the vintage rickshaw, the Penisula Hotel with its glittering lobby and grinning little bellboys in white pillbox caps. It's a girl in a slit skirt with almond eyes and naughty notions.

The Okura in Tokyo is truly Japanese. If your room is near the precise gardens, and you want to take the elevator to the ground floor, you press "5." It's the Ginza with restaurants, nightclubs, more neon signs than New York, and the world's fastest train — Tokyo to Kyoto, 320 miles in 180 minutes.

To be in solitude, to lie on white sand near jade combers, Treasure Cay in the Bahamas. It's so sunny and serene that a hand dropped in the water spooks the bonefish. Or Aruba, where the only sound is the trade wind scouring the sand, where goats roam wild, and human sheep are fleeced at the gambling casino.

There are Hiltons in Bangkok, but the old Oriental is on the edge of the muddy Chao Phraya and there is an oriental bridge in the lobby. It's the place where, when you ring for tea, two Chinese boys respond, shed their slippers, and walk in on their sox.

London is fun if you know the places. You can become a member of a private club for a pound.

Martha's Vineyard is a loose shutter, swale grass and the perpetual sea. Edgartown is quaint, but I like to take hard yellow clams and hang them on a fish hook and fight those sleek beautiful bluefish. At night, dig a hole in damp sand, build a fire, and wrap the food in wet seaweed. The odor is sheer romance.

Madrid is dignity. Madrid is a ride to the Guadarrama Mountains to see El Escorial, where a king sat on a stone chair for 26 years watching his castle and monastery being built. It's the Valley of the Fallen, the only cathedral built in the side of a mountain. It seats 15,000 not counting the 40,000 dead Spanish soldiers within the walls.

Or one can try Rome. Everyone does. There is something for everyone on the seven hills. St. Peter's is for art lovers and sinners. It's a better place for a lonely woman than a lonely man. Rome eternally promises romance, but the delivery system drags.

I like lots of places: Phoenix, the Monterey Peninsula, La Jolla, Beverly Hills, Monmouth Beach, Miami, La Paz, San Juan, an intellectual dispute in a pub in Dublin, Majorca, Montauk Point, Mexico City and that huge white dinner plate resting between the mountains — Caracas.

If we spend our vacation in any of these places, I'll be dreaming of the others. As it is impossible to visit all of them, I may spend two weeks hiding in my closet.

Jack Anderson Says

Bad Intelligence and Leaks Contributed to My Lai Massacre

WASHINGTON — Faulty intelligence and military leaks have caused heavy casualities, contributed to the My Lai massacre and triggered other tragedies in Indochina.

Because intelligence reports are highly classified, the mistakes have been swept under the secrecy label. The public is entitled to know, however, about the terrible cost of intelligence errors.

By monitoring enemy radio transmissions, for example, the Defense Intelligence Agency learned that Hanoi had advance knowledge of both the Cambodian and Laos invasions.

Intercepted enemy messages, called "gamma controlled items," revealed that the Viet Cong had overheard two U.S. officers discuss the Cambodian invasion plan. The eavesdroppers learned enough to alert communist forces in Cambodia.

Before the Laos invasion, allied commandos made repeated, hit-and-run raids against the Ho Chi Minh infiltration routes. It became evident in the fall of 1970, however, that these surprise raids, planned under the secret code name "Prairie Fire," were no longer surprising anyone.

Raiders Ambushed

Someone began tipping off the enemy exaxtly where and when to expect the raids, with disastrous results for the raiders. More than once, helicopters had to be rushed in to rescue the so-called MACSOG teams from ambush.

The South Vietnamese invasion to cut off the Ho Chi Minh trails, similarly, was anticipated by the North Vietnamese. Intelligence estimates placed only one of a half divisions in the area. These were expected to fade back, avoiding any concentrations that could be blasted from the air.

Instead, the South Vietnamese ran into four divisions, which defied withering air attacks to drive the invaders out of Laos. The communists also threw more tanks into the battle than the intelligence experts had thought in the area.

In earlier columns, we also detailed how Hanoi has been alerted in advance of B-52 raids. Plans for the raids, obtained from GIs over stashes of marijuana or caps of heroin, have been delivered to a Soviet trawler off Okinawa's Minitagouwa Point. The trawler's high-powered transmitters would radio the information to Hanoi in time for the North Vietnamese to move their trucks off the Ho Chi Minh trails before the big bombers arrived.

It's also no secret that the My Lai massacre was the direct result of faulty intelligence The attackers were told that the whole area was infested with Viet Cong, that two Viet Cong companies and a field headquarters were located in My Lai and that the villagers would be armed.

The tragic result was that three companies, including Lt. William Calley and his men, surged into My Lai with guns blazing. They didn't stop when the expected Viet Cong turned out to be unarmed villagers.

Unpublicized Massacre

Intelligence goofs have been responsible for other, unpublicized massacres. U.S. pilots, guided by wrong intelligence, have bombed and strafed friendly Montagnard villages. We will document these charges in future columns.

Of course, the celebrated Son Tay raid, which sent daring Americans into the outskirts of Hanoi to rescue war prisoners, was a dangerous wild goose chase thanks to poor intelligence.

Brig. Gen. Leroy Manor, who directed the operation, admitted to the press afterward that the American prisoners had been gone from the camp for "several weeks." His secret message to the Pentagon, stamped "FLAS PRECEDENT," reported that the camp hadn't been occupied for "three or four months."

The price for these intelligence goofs has been paid in blood. Should those who were responsible be allowed to remain in their shadowy world safe from public exposure?

Footnote: Intelligence reports, based on captured documents and intercepted messages, led to the Laos invasion. The reports claimed that Hanoi planned to drive across South Vietnam to the sea in August, thereby disrupting South Vietnamese elections and turning the American withdrawal into a retreat. The assault upon the Ho Chi Minh trail complex was ordered largely to head off this anticipated offensive.

But unhappily, the latest intelligence reports show that the truck traffic down the Ho Chi Minh trails has picked up dramatically since the South Vietnamese pullout. Truck sightings have been running as high as 1,000 to 1,200 a day. This means the North Vietnamese are making a mighty effort to replace the supplies that the invasion force destroyed. The August offensive, if the original reports were correct, may still be possible.

Diplomatic Grapevine

Kremlin Czar Leonid Brezhnev sent a personal message to Yugoslavia's President Tito urging him to participate in the communist congress now going on in Moscow. Tito not only snubbed the invitation, but went to the Vatican to call on the Pope the day before the congress opened. . . The Chinese communist cadres, who make up the skeleton on which the muscle and sinews of communism hang, have become creaky. Old Mao Tse-tung and his hatchetmen are now calling them backsliders guilty of erroneous thinking . . . U.S. intelligence officers say the Chinese party organizers have run up against a wall of apathy among the Chinese people on communism, just as the Russian people are turning off on the same subject. . . Rumors have been whipping through Karachi that the Central Intelligence Agency is behind the rebellion in East Pakistan. The whispers charge that the U.S. seeks to establish a more friendly, independent government in East Pakistan. The rumors undoubtedly will be believed although they are absolutely false.

What Youth Wants

Politics Without Challenge

BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Not long ago I listened to a couple dozen mature college students talk about the problems of the day. They were friendly, inquiring, alert — but astonishingly shallow in their perceptions of reality.

Though one or two were of the total antihero, antipolicis variety, most seemed anxious to find a candidate they could support for the presidency in 1972. Their bent, of course, was toward the Democratic party. But they complained that, with the exception of Sen. Henry M. Jackson's divergence on war and the SST, the presently visible choices were "all the same on the issues."

They did not appear to be faulting the "let's set a date and get out soon" posture of most Democratic candidates toward the Vietnam war. What several asked was:

"When they all share this view, how do we choose among them?"

They were talking, of course, about Sens. Edmund Muskie, Edward Kennedy, Hubert Humphrey, George McGovern, Harold Hughes and Birch Bayh.

If I was hearing right, they were saying that the only thing they had to go by was the verbal or written utterance of these men on the issues.

Whatever became of the idea that when we choose a president, we are weighing not merely his proclaimed views, but his record of performance, his character, his capacity for judgment, his tempermental fitness for office and his potential for growth and change?

These matters never came up that day. Faced with six leading figures who were perceived to be saying substantially the same things about the war, the students professed absolute helplessness in discriminating and selecting.

Indeed, they wanted assistance. A few thought that the candidates should aid them by doing something "administrative," by not only conceiving but carrying out a program or two, to demonstrate the genuineness of their issue positions. (All of the legislators who do not ordinarily get administrative opportunities.)

Mind you, now. These young people were not cynical. They were not shouting "A plague on politics" but were searching for someone to rally around. Yet they were totally lacking in zeal for the quest.

They were abdicating the responsibility they carry as citizens. They were looking at Muskie, Kennedy, McGovern, et al. as if they had blank faces with issue cards pasted over them, as if these men were all spiritless bearers of a common written message — and nothing more.

As a matter of fact, the six candidates to not even speak the same way about the war, even though they do come together on some key points.

Is it really impossible to judge among these men unless they all run out and start little projects to prove they mean what they say?

What is the Democratic process of selection all about, if not weighing the candidates' observable qualities of mind, their degree of emotional balance, their record of performance, past and present?

Admittedly, choosing can be difficult. But democracy was not designed to be easy work.

Which brings us to another point. Underlying not just their attitudes toward candidate choice but by many other matters was a strange weariness. The new vogue word, "despair," did not apply. What these young people lacked was a taste for the hard challenges of life. By their own testimony, they are easily crushed by defeat. They do not talk of rising to fight another day.

They want assurances of swift, total triumph. They want to believe in something and someone. But they don't want to have to dig. They want it all out on the sleeve to be taken in at a glance.

Air Force Band to Help Open Lions' Exposition April 27

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON

No event proclaiming as its theme, "The American Scene," would be complete without a parade, and this year's Lions Club Exposition and Home Show is no exception.

On April 27 at 6:15 p.m., just 45 minutes before the doors open on what is billed as the biggest and best Exposition in local Lions' history, a parade complete with all the trimmings will depart from Academy Green.

The highlight of the parade will be the appearance of the United States Air Force Marching Band, whose spokesman announced Thursday that they would be in Kingston for the event. The famed band will also give a concert on the opening night of the Exposition at the Armory.

At least 11 other units will participate in the march, headed by the Kingston High School marching band, the Troop 12 Indians Drum and Bugle Corps and the vibrant Up With People singing group.

The marchers will proceed down Albany Avenue from the park near the Governor Clinton Hotel and then turn down Manor Avenue for the short trek to the New York State Armory, where this year's Exposition will unfold in a profusion of colors and events.

In addition to the groups mentioned, other units participating in the parade will be the Amersot Highland Pipe Band, the Color Guard of the 1st battalion, 156th Field Artillery of the New York National Guard, the Young Marines, Civil Air Patrol, 16 mounted riders from the Ulster County Sheriff's Department, Little Leaguers, Ulster County 4-H'ers and the Ulster County Antique Car Club.

Members of the parade committee, who include Robert Boening, Marty Bier and Benjamin Magaldino, have stated that other entries in the parade may be announced as opening day draws near.

The Exposition this year will run from April 27 through May 1 at the Manor Avenue Armory. Lions Club officials expect that more than 20,000 persons will attend to view the countless booths and exhibits that will be on display.

To date, 75 area businesses and organizations have agreed to sponsor 127 separate booths and exhibits at the Exposition. Groups expected to display their special projects include the Department of Environmental Conservation, Mid-Hudson Heart Association, Inc., New York Ceramic Distributors Association, Kingston Urban Renewal, Board of Cooperative Educational Services, John A. Coleman High School, Ulster Academy, and Kingston Hospital.

In addition to the exhibits that will be on display, there will be continuing entertainment and musical performances for the enjoyment of the crowd.

Prizes will also be in large supply, including a grand prize of $2,500 in cash. A large number of televisions and other household appliances also will be awarded.

Francis Kugelman, vice-president of the Kingston Lions Club, is chairman of this year's Exposition.

Cole Speaker

KINGSTON

Charles Cole, superintendent of the Board of Public Works, will be the guest speaker at an April 14 meeting of the Environmental Task Force in the Ulster Academy auditorium, it was announced recently.

According to Mrs. Richard Kobran, co-chairman of the task force, Cole will outline his plans for a continuing, city-wide recycling campaign.

Further details concerning the city-wide cleanup campaign scheduled for the week of April 19-23 are also expected to be announced at the meeting.

The Environmental Task Force is a member agency of the Total Community Development Program of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce.

The meeting, which is open to the public, will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Vols Needed For Work on Accord Site

ACCORD

Volunteers from the Accord Fire Company are needed to assist in the renovation and construction of the new community center building on Route 209, it was announced recently.

Work still needs to be done on the interior and exterior of the building itself, and on the surrounding premises.

Last fall, half of the roof was replaced and sme of the brush was cut from the grounds. Recently, interior cleaning was started, the old front porch removed and broken glass in some of the windows and doors replaced.

When completed, the building will be used for a variety of group activities for residents of the Town of Rochester.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the fire company has already pledged its support and assistance for the project.

All fire company members have also been asked to familiarize themselves with the operations of the company's newly acquired pumper. It was noted that the firehouse is open Saturday mornings and on the second Tuesday of each month, at which times the performance of the truck will be explained.

Kindness Contagious in Vietnam

PHAN RANG, Vietnam (UPI) —Thanks to military and civilian donors in South Vietnam, a Texas brother and sister suffering from a rare kidney disease will receive aid in meeting costly medical bills.

Air Force Sgt. Robert L. Jones, 22, of Turlock, Calif., said today he had raised $37,200 in three days to help The Texans —"and it's still pouring in." The goal is $50,000.

Jones, stationed at Phan Rang Air Base 165 miles northeast of Saigon, became an "instant fund raiser" when he read about Gary Holt, 20, a Sophomore at Southwest Texas State University and his sister, Paula, 17. They are victims of acute nephritis, a rare, hereditary kidney disease which requires them to spend 15 hours a week channeling their blood through a machine to stay alive.

The machine which processes the blood consumes a non-reusable liquid chemical which costs the H.V. Holt family of Austin at least $360 a month for each person.

The disease already has killed three of the 10 Holt children and three others still are in the 16-to-20 year age range during which acute nephritis usually strikes.

Holt drives a bread truck and his wife operates a day nursery in their home. Gary works part time in a shoe store, but their combined incomes do not come near meeting the medical expenses.

The sergeant, a heavy weapons specialist with the 35th Tactical Fighter Wing security police, discussed the case with the wing's public information office, who relayed his desire to help to the base commander.

A marathon radio appeal was made over the commander's frequency broadcasting system, a special low-power FM radio station used on air bases in Vietnam. Within 25 hours, Jones had raised more than half the money.

"It spread like wildfire and wasn't just limited to American GIs either," Jones said. "The Aussies from the Royal Australian Air Force Number Two Squadron and Vietnamese and American civilian workers joined in."

U.S. Army units at Phan Rang massed to the Air Force-sponsored drive and helped man telephones throughout the night.

Units pooled their resources and came up with donations in the thousands of dollars. Three GIs offered a kidney, if it would help. One airman wrote a check for $1,267, a large portion of his re-enlistment bonus. Another canceled his new car order stateside so he could donate $450.

Welfare Aid

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Figures released by the state Department of Social Services for December 1970 show that $96 million was spent on aid to dependent children.

The aged, blind and disabled received $23 million from the state, while $16 million went to a home-relief program.

Pope Calls Marrying Priests 'Judas'

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI has used one of the ugliest words in Christendom to describe priests who abandon their vocations to marry or for other reasons: Judas.

The Pope's accusation Thursday was one of his bitterest outbursts since a famous 1969 speech in which he accused rebellious priests of "crucifying" the Roman Catholic Church.

"How can one fail to offer a prayer on Holy Thursday Evening for these runaway brothers and the communities they have abandoned and ing a 2½ hour service at the Rome Basilica of St. John in Lateran.

He said reading the story of Judas Iscariot, the betrayer of Jesus, reminded him of such men, and added:

"How can one fail on this occasion to weep for the deliberate defection of some priests and the moral mediocrity by which they pretend it is natural and logical to break a long premeditated promise solemnly taken before Christ and the Church."

The Pope made a new defense of the Church's celibacy law and said he was praying for priests who abide by it.

Hostage Foils Michigan Bank Robber

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI)—Charles Andrakowicz, an unemployed factory workers, was sitting at his kitchen table with his wife and 15-month-old son when a man who had just robbed a bank forced his way into the house and "stuck a shotgun in my face."

"It just happened," said Andrakowicz, 27. "I still don't believe it."

The bandit, fleeing from police Thursday after making off with $7,000 from a branch of the Central Bank, told Andrakowicz to "get your shoes on, get your car keys and let's get going."

Andrakowicz, "worried about my wife and my children" (the other two were playing out in the yard), quickly complied. As the car started down the street, it was cut off by a police cruiser.

The gunman then took his eyes off Andrakowicz and Andrakowicz, who stands 6-feet-2 and weighs 230 pounds, grabbed the sawed-off shotgun, which discharged, shattering the windshield.

The two men fell out of the car, grappling. The bandit aimed the shotgun at a policeman crouching behind the cruiser and fired a shot at him. The shot missed.

Andrakowicz then grabbed the gun again, took it away from the bandit and "proceeded to beat the living hell out of him."

Six policemen pulled Andrakowicz from the bandit, identified as Clare Harvey, 32, of nearby Sparta. Harvey was arrested on charges of bank robbery and ordered held under $25,000 bond.

The stolen money was found in Andrakowicz' car.

Andrakowicz, speaking to a newsman after it was all over, explained why he reacted as he did after being placed by fate in such a situation.

"I watch television. I believe the news reports. He might be taking me for a two-block ride or it might be the end of me," he said.

Tocks Island Dam Project: Halt for Environment Study

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration has thrown a roadblock in front of the proposed Tocks Island dam and reservoir by ordering another study on the project's environmental impact.

The decision was revealed on Thursday in a four-page letter from Russell E. Train, chairman of the Council on Environmental Quality, to Robert Jordan, general counsel for the Army.

The project, which will be the basis for the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area, is planned to serve the tri-state area of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York.

Construction was scheduled to begin next month.

In the letter, which was released by Rep. Fred B. Rooney, D-Pa., Train said the council found the Army Corps of Engineers' draft environmental impact statement had "shortcomings which need to be remedied."

"In order to answer the questions we have raised and those raised by others, Train told Jordan, I hope that you will carefully consider my proposal to prepare a comprehensive, multidisciplinary environmental impact statement in conjunction with the Department of Interior, Federal Power Commission, and Delaware Water Basin Commission."

Rooney said he received the letter "with mixed emotions," but was still committed to the view that the government should determine fully now what the short-term and long-term environmental consequences of the dam, reservoir and pump-storage facilities will be.

"In cooperation with Rep. John Dow of New York, Joseph McDade of Pennsylvania and Frank Thompson of New Jersey, that is what I have been seeking to do," he said.

Drug Arrests Follow 209 Traffic Checks

ELLENVILLE

State Police arrested two motorists as the result of unrelated traffic checks on Route 209 and charged each with criminal possession of dangerous drugs in the sixth degree.

Trooper J. J. Schetzel of the Ellenville station this morning cited 23-year-old Stephen Kaplan of Brooklyn after he stopped a car on the highway in the Town of Wawarsing and found the driver in possession of marijuana.

Search of the vehicle also disclosed a pipe used for smoking marijuana, authorities said. Kaplan was held for arraignment before a town justice.

Trooper Schetzel also arrested 19-year-old James M. Piscitelli of Syracuse on a drugs charge after he was stopped on Route 209 and search of his car revealed a quantity of amphetamines. Arraigned before Rochester Town Justice Harold Lipton, the youth pleaded guilty and paid a $50 fine.

Defense Witness Argues Crimmins Murder Motive

NEW YORK (AP) — The one motive offered by the prosecution to explain why Mrs. Alice Crimmins allegedly killed her two children has been disputed by a defense witness.

The prosecution has contended that Mrs. Crimmins killed the children on July 14, 1965, because she feared her estranged husband, Edmund, would gain their custody.

But on Thursday Michael W. LaPenna, a Manhattan attorney, testified in Queens Supreme Court that he advised Mrs. Crimmins in July, 1965, just before she is alleged to have committed the killings, that "she would never lose the children."

Mrs. Crimmins is being tried for manslaughter in the death of her daughter, Alice Marie, 4, and for murder in the death of her son, Edmund Jr., 5.

Edmund Crimmins, now divorced from Mrs. Crimmins, also testified Thursday for the defense and corroborated the earlier testimony of a key state witness.

Crimmins said that, when the Crimmins' dog had a puppy in July, 1965, everyone was surprised. "We never even knew she was pregnant," he testified.

Mrs. Sophie Earomirski had testified for the prosecution that on the night the children disappeared she saw Mrs. Crimmins at 2:30 a.m. walking down the street with a dog, a little boy, a bundle and a man. She said she heard the defendant say, "The dog is pregnant."

Ors. Earomirski, a neighbor, also said she had heard several other remarks implying the bundle contained the dead girl's body.

Memoriam

In loving memory of Leon Gorsline, who passed away 10 years ago, April 9, 1961.

At night the silent stars look down,
On a grave not far from here,
Where sleeps the one we can't forget,
The one we loved so dear.
If we had all the world to give,
We'd give it yes, and more,
To hear his voice and see his smile,
And greet him at the door.

West Hurley Cancer Crusade Chairman for 17th Year

MRS. DANIEL FOCHI

This year, Mrs. Daniel Fochi is observing her 17th year as chairman of the West Hurley Cancer Crusade. A dedicated worker, she has been instrumental in organizing auctions, door-to-door canvasing and in 1966, with the assistance of Charles Raible and Janet Fochi, added $400 to the cancer treasury as a result of a basketball benefit. The players were Rotron executives and secretaries.

"The only reason we have been able to maintain a successful program in behalf of Cancer Crusade in this area is that we have excellent volunteers," Mrs. Fochi told The Freeman. Assisting her with this year's work will be Mrs. Keith Ogden, Mrs. Edward Weinburg, Mrs. William Carr, Mrs. Myron Parslow, Mrs. Robert A. Carle, Mrs. Allen Rowe, Mrs. Edward Schroeder, Mrs. Glenford Beesmer, Mrs. Joseph Dodd, Mrs. Frank Stadulis, Mrs. Arthur Bachman, Mrs. Herbert Bundy, Mrs. Henry Gleich, Mrs. William Urell, Mrs. Benson Rogers, Mrs. Dominic Salvucci and Aaron Grey.

In addition to Mrs. Fochi's efforts in behalf of Cancer Crusade, her husband is heading up the Memorial Donations in ULster County. Mr. Fochi may be contacted for this purpose throughout the year. A Memorial Gift to the American Cancer Society is a thoughful gift — a living memorial. This tribute to someone loved means others are helped by supporting the American Cancer Society's program, of Research, Education and Service. Every contribution is acknowledged with an official receipt to the donor and is deductible for tax purposes.

Mrs. Fochi also told the Freeman the Cancer Crusade door-to-door campaign is now in progress throughout the West Hurley area.

Summer Hair Styles Have Free and Easy Look

Hair styles for summer have a free and easy look that is softly feminine and delightfully comfortable to wear.

The new free and easy styles were presented before more than 40,000 hairdressers meeting in New York at the International Beauty Show, March 29-31.

They were introduced by the Official Hair Fashion Committee of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, the hair fashion authority of the profession.

In most of the styles that were shown, hair in the crown area was brushed softyly down to follow the natural contours of the head. Some may have had a soft lift, when needed by the individual model, but the effect was one of a head-conscious flow of gentle wave movement, natural in appearance, not contrived.

At the sides of the head and in the crown and nape areas, waves, curls, or both, billow out in a variety of blousing effects, sometimes forming soft fluffs, clusters of curls, or an interplay of waves. However, in each case, their volume, dimension and placement were determined by the individual needs of the models.

The importance of the individual was particularly well shown on some models whose hairlines and forehead dimensions called for special care. In each case, face framing fluffs or overly directed waves were used instead of bangs. But, most of the styles were face revealing.

Of special interest for summer fun was a wash and wear version of the new styles, designed for quick grooming after swimming. This particular style was based upon a special body permanent wave of curls at the sides and in the crown and nape areas, an expert haircut, plus styling with a blow-comb. The wet hair was dried and dressed in front of the audience in less than a half hour, a wonderful indication of what we can look forward to from professional hairdressing this summer.

Most of the coiffures shown for day wear continued the small head look, and generally few tendrils or loosecurls were seen at the temples. However, evening coiffures seemed to blossom out into dramatic dimensions for a wide variety of romantic treatments created with postiches and wiglets. These were worn most often with the ankle length dresses of soft airy fabrics.

Summer haircuts call for various lengths of layered hair at the sides and a high taper in the back. Necklines are cut to follow the natural growth direction of the hair, ranging from a zero length to about two-and-a-half inches, depending upon individiual nee.

Hair coloring for summer, took calls for a personal touch, one that will bring a sparkle to the eye, a glow to the complexion and a generally vibrant feeling. Popular colors range from light honey blonde to shimmering brunette. A bright yellow buttercup gold was shown more often than in many years. But, whatever the color, it is really produced with an interminglnig of tones, a tone on tone effect that is wonderfully more natural looking than nature's.

Let Your Husband Show His Emotions

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a highly emotional man. Last evening we went to a very sad movie, and Dennis cried like a baby in all the sad parts.

When Dennis cries, he blows his nose a lot and his eyes get red, and it's very embarrassing to walk out of a theater with a man who looks like a little boy whose father just worked him over in the woodshed.

It doesn't have to be a sad movie, either. When we see funny movies, Dennis laughs so hard he cries. I knew he was emotional when I married him, so maybe I shouldn't complain, but I wish there were some nice way to tell him to please try harder to control his emotions in public. After all, it's only a movie.

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Of the many "cultural refinements" in our present-day society, the notion that it's "unmanly" for a man to cry is one of the physically damaging. There is no reason why a man should feel more ashamed of expressing an honest emotion than a woman.

Those who consistently hide their true feelings suffer from a variety of ailments, chronic stomach disorders and skin diseases, to name two. Be grateful that your husband is able to give vent to his emotions. It's healthy!

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I have been married twice. My first marriage was miserable. My second, wonderful.

My problem is that my mother never throws anything away. She has the wedding gown from my first marriage hanging in the closet of her house. Every time I go over there I see it, and it bugs me. I've told her several times to please give it away, or throw it away. Just get rid of it because it stirs up such unpleasant memories.

She says, "Maybe one day your daughter will want to get married in it."

I said, "Over my dead body." Abby, my daughter is only 10, and besides that gown is 20 years old and yellow. What can I do?

BUGGED

DEAR BUGGED: If the gown belongs to you (and it seems to me that it does — even if your mother paid for it), you can remove it from the closet and dispose of it any way you wish. It's difficult to believe that your mother has your best interests at heart, if she knows how you feel and keeps it hanging where you will see it every time you visit.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I have been keeping company with a nice gentleman for 17 years now. Al is 51, and I am 50. He is a wonderful man and very good-natured. Al recently bought a five-room house (two bedrooms) and we are living together, but not as man and wife. We get along so well and sharing one house is convenient for both of us. I feel I am doing no wrong, but the neighbors don't see it that way.

Al says he will marry me if I want him to, but I'm afraid it might spoil our wonderful relationship. We get along in every way, and we don't tell each other what to do. I have one bad habit which Al hates. Playing Bingo. I'm afraid if I married him he would try to make me quit Bingo, and I don't want to quit. What do you advise?

UP NORTH

DEAR UP: Since you and Al are not "living as man and wife," don't marry him because of what the neighbors may think. You're right, a husband might insist that his wife quit Bingo, but a "pal" sharing the same house (separate bedrooms) would have nothing to say about it. Don't rock the boat.

• • •

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

National YWCA Week to Be Celebrated From April 18-24

"Come As YOU Are . . . Join the Y.W.C.A." is the YWCA's invitation to its nationwide open house during National YWCA week, to be celebrated from April 18th to 24th. The 2,600,000 members and 6,800 places in the United States and 80 countries of the world extend their invitation to you to join them in active membership, and program participation at the Kingston Association, located at 209 Clinton Avenue.

This, the 24th annual observance of National YWCA Week will reflect the membership organization's richness of diversity. YW members are encouraged to act responsibly in improving their own life style, and that of others through classes, special interest programs, counseling, and opportunities for volunteer service and social action.

Locally, a particular highlight of YWCA Week will be an "Ecology Day," to be held throughout Wednesday, April 21. Planned to help women discover a new dimension of their own role in the community, the nation, and the world, "Ecology Day" will present speakers from organizations directly concerned with our environment. Some already scheduled include the Zero Population Growth, Inc., of Poughkeepsie; the Environmental Task Force; and the T.B. and R.D. Association.

"Ecology Day" sessions will run from 10 a.m. till noon; re-convene at 1:30 p.m. continuing till 4 o'clock p.m., with an evening session to follow at 8 p.m. Open to the public, who are earnestly invited to attend, side-line features of "Ecology Day" will be supervised baby-sittting available at a nominal fee, and light refreshments will be served.

Visit the YWCA — where women and girls share concern for each other. during National YWCA Week, April 18-24.

Registration Set For Hospital Volunteer Program

Registration for the Junior Volunteer Program at Northern Dutchess Hospital, Rhinebeck, will begin Monday, according to director Mrs. Edmond Ransford.

In a letter which has been sent to all area junior and senior high schools, Mrs. Ransford listed the following requirements for volunteers: be at least 15 years old by June 1; attend a training program given in the hospital; submit your application and have a personal interview completed by May 4; and have working papers at the time of your interview.

Each applicant must contact Mrs. Ransford at Rhinebeck for a personal interview appointment. Additional information may be obtained from your guidance counsellor.

Annual DAR Social Held Here

SPRING LUNCHEON — Wiltwyck and Saugerties Chapters of Daughters of American Revolution were co-hostesses at the April 5 spring luncheon in the crystal room of the Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston. Principals in attendance included (L-R) Mrs. Lewis Gaylord, regent, Saugerties Chapter; Mrs. Herbert Dratz, regent, On-ti-ora Chapter of Catskill, state vice chairman of National Defense, speaker; Mrs. George F. Dingee, regent, Wiltwyck Chapter and Mrs. Henry R. Bollinger, state director, District Nine. (Freeman photo by Haines).

The annual spring luncheon of Wiltwyck and Saugerties Chapters, Daughters of the American Revolution, took place Monday, Apr. 5 in the crystal room of Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston, with 91 members of District III attending.

Presiding were Mrs. George F. Dingee and Mrs. Lewis Gaylord, regents of their chapters. The honored guests introduced were the Mmes. Henry R. Bollinger, stated director District IX; Howard L. Laib, state chairman DAR good citizens; Miss Amy Walker, state chairman, Constitution Week; and speaker, Mrs. Herbert Dratz, Regent, On-ti-ora Chapter, and State Vice-Chairman National Defense, District III.

Mentioning the tendencies today to decry patriotism and to cast aspersions upon the heroes of yesteryear, Mrs. Dratz named those American heroes, John Paul Jones, Paul Revere and Nathan Hale, whose statue stands in City Hall Park, New York, all of whom defended this country against the forces of despotism as is presently being done. With the wind of another world cold upon his forehead, Hale spoke one short sentence echoing down throught the corridors of time to us today." "I only regret that I have but one life to give for my country." Continuing, the speaker said, "If Almighty God grants us the time and the will, we may still be able to preserve this lovely land of ours, a nation fit for heroes, stretching in warmth of heart and unity of purpose, "from sea to shining sea." Mrs. Dratz was given a standing ovation.

Ahls Observe 40th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Ahl of 6 Spruce Street, Kingston, celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary on Sunday, Apr. 4.

Married April 5, 1931 in St. Peter's Church, Kingston, by the late Rev. John P. Neumann, Mrs. and Mrs. Ahl are the parents of three children: Mrs. Charles (Arlene) Gildersleeve of Poughkeepsie; Mrs. William (Bernice) Burr of Middletown; and Mrs. Raymond (Dorothea) Every of Kingston. They also have 11 grandchildren: Raymond Every; William, Mary Ann, Patricia, Thomas Michael, Peter, and John Burr; and Lynette, Robbyn and Charla Gildersleeve.

A dinner for the immediate family was given by their daughters and sons-in-law at the home of the couple's daughter, and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Every at 119 Pearl Street, Kingston. Mr. Ahl is employed by the Ulster County Highway Department.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUISE

Dear Heloise:

The small round "Plastic disks" in the centers of plastic or cellophane tape holders can be remove after the tape is all gone and used as holders for drying Easter eggs after they have been dyed.

Place the pointed end of the egg down in the disc and the egg will dry beautifully and your artistic endeavors will not get smeared.

This always posed a problem for me when dying eggs. I never seemed to know what to do with them after dipping in the dye.

There isn't a muss in a carload.

MRS. B.H.

Letters of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

I am the mother of four small daughters and have had a problem keeping their cute little furry caps looking nice after washing.

They always looked so matted and ugly.

One day I took my wig brush and brushed them out just as you wouid brush a wig.

Now they look as good as the day I bought them.

Joanie H.

Dear Heloise:

I broke my leg and have been using crutches to get around ever since.

You know they are hard to stand up alone. If you got to the sink for water or go to get something out of the refrigerator and you lean them against the counter, nine times out of ten they will slide down.

But I have found that put them upside down (arm rest down), they won't slide.

Fred Sweeney

Dear Heloise:

I was looking for a space to keep my pails and washing utensils in my basement, and came up with this idea.

I strung a long dog chain from one beam to the next, or to my desired length. I then took drapery pins and hooked them onto a link in the chain.

I hang all my extra large pots, and anything else with a handle, on a hook. It comes in handy for hanging up old rags.

Mrs. A. Coccia

For all you gals who don't have basements, this hint could be used in a utility room.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Read your hints every day and sure do enjoy them.

My spots are gone, my cakes are moist, and I use nylon net by the yards and vinegar by the gallon!

Keep the hints coming. Thanks.

Charm School Opens For the Handicapped

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD

HONOLULU (UPI)—Smiling with a newly found confidence, the pretty teen-ager walked down the runway with all the grace of a professional model.

She had learned that even in a silent world, an awkward girl can be transformed into a graceful and polished young woman.

Thirty girls, all with hearing disabilities, spend two hours each week at a charm school. Most of the subjects such as posture, grooming, weight, makeup and wardrobe, are designed to smooth off the rough edges of any other teen-age girl. The rest are geared to give these handicapped youngsters confidence in themselves and in their future.

The class draws girls from eight public schools in Honolulu, including a community college. It was organized by Gail Sykes, auditory specialist for the deaf and hard of hearing at McKinley High School.

Miss Sykes and two instructors at the Sears Roebuck Charm School, which provides the 10-week course free, work together in the sessions. Miss Sykes came up with the idea for the classes when a student asked her if there were any place she could learn about modeling.

All of the girls, who range in age from 13 to 20, read lip movements to some extent but Miss Sykes intervenes and explains in sign language when communication of a point is difficult.

Because the girls cannot hear themselves walk, many tend to drag their feet or shuffle. And because they have so little concept of sound, their speech falters and is not always easily understood, Miss Sykes said.

"We teach them how to walk gracefully and project personality through speech," said Miss Sykes. "Some of the girls hardly ever said a word before the course but are talking frequently now."

The instructors, both profesional models, are Rhonda Adams and Candace Ishikawa, but neither had had any experience in teaching charm courses to the deaf.

"This class gets to you more than any other classes," said Miss Adams, "because you see that they care."

Paltz Still in the Dark On New Assessor System

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ

When Town of New Paltz officials met this week with a delegation from the state Office of Local Government headed by John Dugan they hoped to get a formal, definite answer on the question of whether village residents will have the option of choosing their assessor system. They didn't get it.

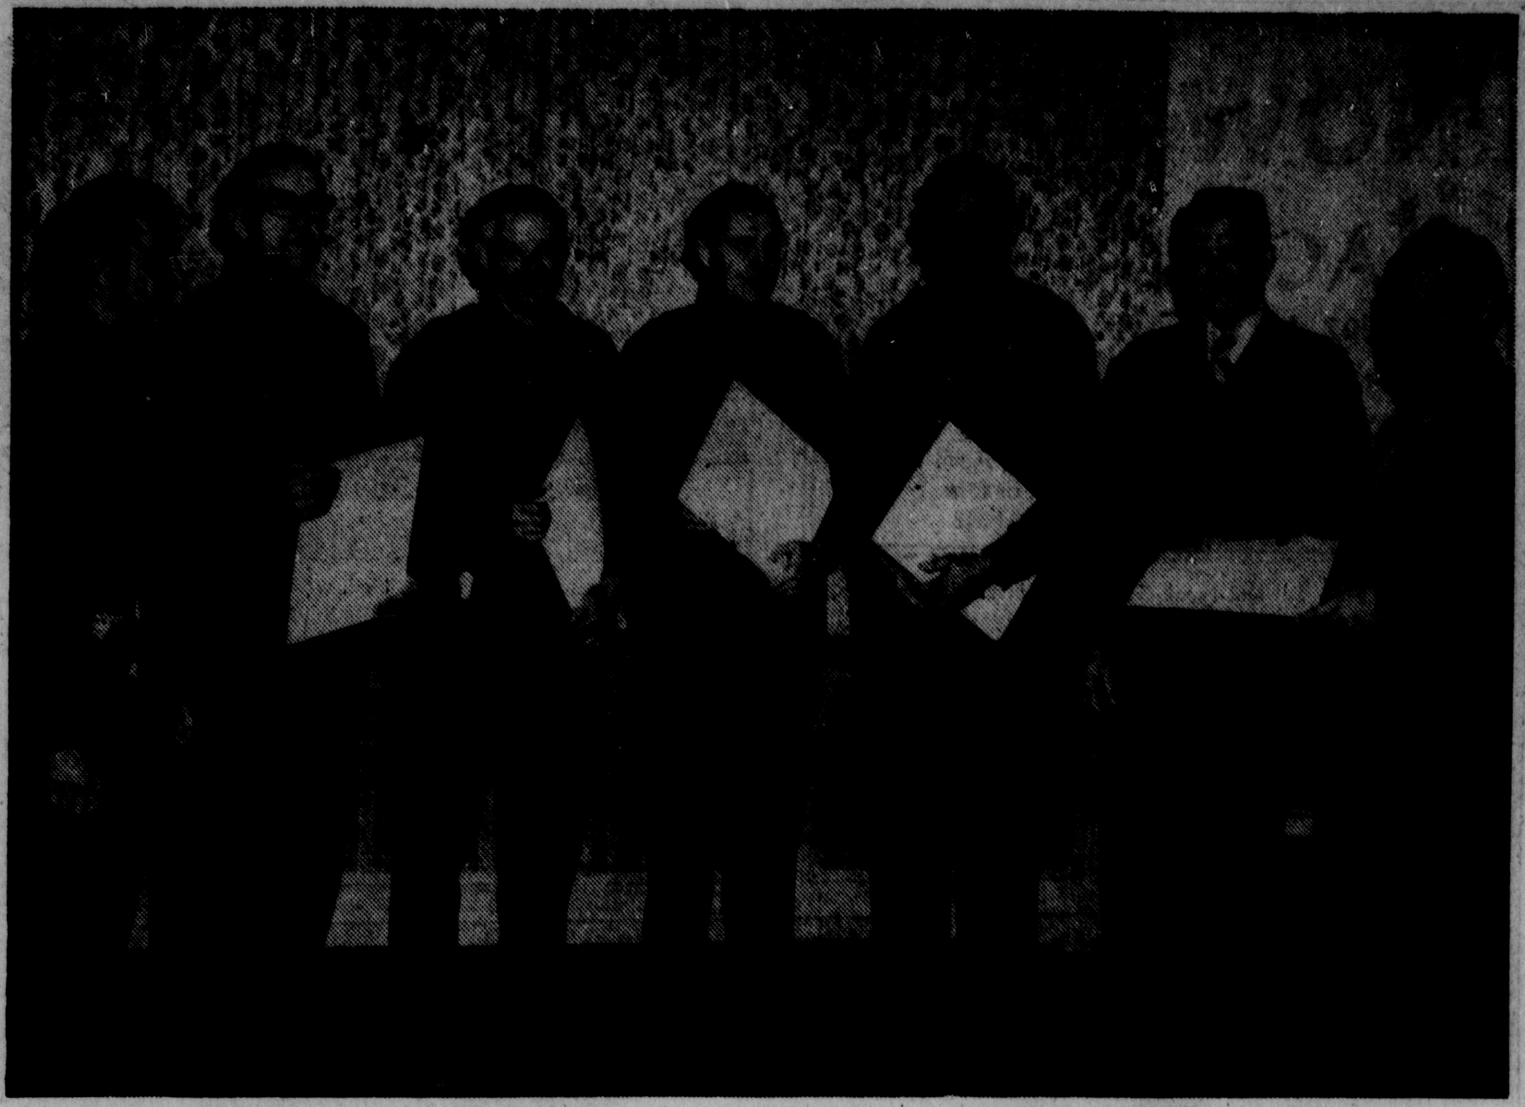
The town has gone through all necessary legal steps, held the hearing, and set the date for a public referendum on the question of retaining the towns three assessor system or going to a single appointed assessor, exactly as specified in the new assessor law. It may have all been for nothing.

The basic difficulty, according to Town Supervisor Anthony J. Moriello, is the "transitional status" of New Paltz. The 1970 census put the town several hundred over the 10,000 mark, and the Office of Local Governament, at this week's meeting, did tell the town they would have to become a first class town in January 1971, with this November's elections on a first class town basis.

State town law says a first class town must have an appointed assessor. The new assessor law says a town which votes to keep three elected assessors may do so. Moriello said the conflict in the law leaves New Paltz "caught in the middle."

The state delegation told Moriello it was not going to work the conflict out, but had given the issue to the state Board of Equalization and Assesssment for a final decision. They told Moriello that about three other towns in the state had the same problem New Paltz has.

The state board's decision is expected by the end of the month. Moriello, who had hoped for a decision by next Wednesday night's town board meeting, was disappointed, but said the town will have to "sit tight until we get a decision." And the possibly unnecessary referendum is still scheduled for June 5.



KIWANIANS CITE POLICE — Five members of Kingston Police Department were recognized for a quarter of a century of service at the Thursday luncheon meeting of Kingston Kiwanis Club held at Gov. Clinton Hotel. Each received a citation presented by Kiwanis President Harlow DeForest. Acting Police Chief Julius Glassman (L) witnesses the presentations to Lt. Guernsey Burger Jr., Patrolman Ernest Bartroff, Sgt. William Hanley, Sgt. Carl Janasiewicz and Det. Leonard Ellsworth. DeForest is at right. Also in attendance were Police Commissioners Dr. William Dean, John Napoleon and Thomas Henebery, who reviewed the years of service. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Incumbents Are 2-1

Ellenville School Race

ELLENVILLE

The deadline for filing for election to the Ellenville School Board is Wednesday, April 21, and with one incumbent not running and two undecided.

John E. Killeen told The Freeman Thursday that he would not be a candidate for reelection to the school board because of pressure of business commitments. He had high praise for the board and the school administration, but said he had informed School Board President James J. Murray and Superintendent of Schools Thomas Hayden that he would not run.

Killeen said he believed he had a candidate to run in his place, and the name would be released when a final decision had been made. Killeen has served three years on the board.

John B. Gillette and Jack H. Siegel have also reached the end of their terms, and neither has decided whether or not to run again. Siegel told The Freeman he would decide by next Thursday. He is the senior men on the Ellenville School Board with 12 years of service. Gillette has served four years.

Each nominating petition must be directed to the clerk of the Ellenville Central School, must be signed by at least 25 qualified voters of the district, and must state the name and residence of the candidate and the length of term of office.

See $4.80 Tax Hike In Saugerties Village

SAUGERTIES

The preliminary Saugerties Village budget for the coming fiscal year totaling $381,110 shows an increase of $72,500 over the current budget. If approved in its present form it will reflect a tax rate of $27.80, an increase of $4.80 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

Village Clerk James V. Gage said, however, that the increases in the preliminary budget will be considered and negotiated, and there may be some changes prior to the presentation of the document at a public hearing Thursday, April 5 at 8 p.m. in the village board rooms.

Increases are as follows: Staff expenses, $26,000, an increase of $3,000; public safety, $100,000, an increase of $20,000; streets and sanitation, $130,000, an increase of $5,000; general fund $64,000, an increase of $20,000, and debt redemption, $40,000, an increase of $25,000.

Estimated revenues total $77,950, about the same as last year.

This leaves $303,160, or $72,515 more to be raised by taxation. The rate will be figured on an assessed valuation of $10,601,547, an increase of $101,547. Salaries of the mayor $1,400 per year and trustees, $600 each per year, remain the same.

Narcotics Expert Visits Paltz High

NEW PALTZ

Walter Arendt from the New York State Narcotic Addiction Control Commission visited all New Paltz High School Phychophysiology classes Tuesday, March 30.

He explained the commission's programs to the students and followed this with a short film about drug abuse. He also explained the treatment undergone by drug addicts.

He concluded by reminding the students that Drug Abuse Prevention Week has been proclaimed in Ulster County for April 26-31. Any organization in New Paltz interested in having a speaker or a program dealing with drug abuse during that week should call Arendt at the Poughkeepsie Community Narcotics Education Center.

Four Women Sky Marshals Take Over Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Handy with pistols and the karate chop, the first women sky marshals say they have no doubt of their ability to deal with airline hijackers.

"I feel I'm as capable as a man, in fact more qualified than some," said one of the four attractive women who graduated Thursday from a four-week training course from sky marshals.

All but one of the girls said they had no fear of facing air pirates. The fourth said:

"I think anyone would be apprehensive. You'd be foolish if you didn't. But I feel confident I can do the job."

The young women, all single and in their 20s, insisted on anonymity, and so did the Treasury Department, which trained them for the Federal Aviation Administration.

Including one who has never flown before, they said there was little hesitation to try for the jobs when they learned of them through Civil Service examinations.

"I don't think we had any doubts," said a dark-haired one. "We knew the training we would receive would make us well prepared to handle the situation."

As are all sky marshals, the girls are trained in use of firearms, judo and karate and how to handle a hijacker aboard a commercial flight.

"If you're familiar with a gun, I think that helps," one, a former secretary, advised women who might want to apply.

"You have to be physical enough to ride horses, play tennis, or chase your brother around the block," said another, a former technical worker for the government.

"Just be sincere," another said. "Be sincere that you want to do the job, and not just for women's liberation or anything like that."

Defense Rests Its Case for Poindexter

NEW YORK (AP) — The defense for David R. Poindexter, charged with harboring black militant Angela Davis, has rested without calling any witnesses after the prosecution completed its case.

Stanley Arkin, attorney for Poindexter, gave no explanation for his action Thursday.

U.S. District Court Judge John M. Cannella recessed the trial until Monday, when both sides are expected to deliver summations.

In a four-day presentation the government called a total of 44 witnesses in an attempt to show that Poindexter helped Miss Davis evade arrest for eight weeks while he was aware that federal arrest warrants had been issued for her last August.

Poindexter's defense has claimed that he was unaware of the warrants during the time in question.

Miss Davis was put on the FBI's 10-most-wanted list after she allegedly fled California charges of providing weapons used in a courthouse shootout in San Rafael, Calif., which left four persons dead. She is now undergoing pre-trial hearings in California.

Poindexter was arrested here with Miss Davis Oct. 13.

Army in Search For Lost Hiker

HONOLULU (AP) — A ten-man army ground rescue team was flown to the island of Molokai Thursday to resume a search for Donald Hickey, 32, who has been missing in a rugged valley area for three weeks.

The search for Hickey began March 29 when his hiking companion, David Gunning, 24, of Astoria, Ore., was found injured near the mouth of the Waialau Valley.

The Coast Guard, Civil Air Patrol and the county fire department coordinated an intensive aerial and ground search that lasted until last Saturday when it was called off.

Gunning said he last saw Hickey March 22 when Hickey went for help after Gunning had injured his leg. Gunning waited six days for Hickey to return and then made his way down the valley to the sea where he was spotted by an aircraft and later rescued.

Rebekahs Honor Noble Grands

WEST SAUGERTIES

Past Noble Grands of the Queen of the Catskill Mountains Rebekah Lodge 36 were honored at a recent meeting held at West Saugerties.

Noble Grand, Mamie Gilmore, welcomed the officers present and made a comment on their past services to the Lodge. Each officer was presented with a gift.

After the meeting Augusta Schirmer showed slides of many interesting places of her travels down south and of past and present staffs of officers.

Members were invited to attend the 48th anniversary celebration at the Agapae Rebekah Lodge 623 on April 21.

Many Rebekahs throughout the state will attend the Tomb of the Unknown soldier on May 2.

The New York State Rally will be held on April 17 at the Masonic Temple, Main Street, Binghampton.

The delegate who will be sent to the Rebekah Assembly Session in May, will be Anna Yakin. This session will be held at Niagara Falls May 16 to 20 at the Parkway Inn.

Assembly Right Herald Ethel A. Jehle will attend with her President M. Lee, and her staff of officers.

Refreshments were served by Maude Manning and Blanch Lamouree.

Vols Dinner to Recognize 50-Year Snyder Hose Members

SAUGERTIES

The Sawyerkill Restaurant will be the scene of a celebration May 4 when members of R. A. Snyder Hose Company will honor eight members who have completed 50 years of service in the fire company.

This will be the second time that the company has honored members who have completed a half century of service. Five years ago 11 men were given 50 year pins in another ceremonial event.

The following men will be honored at the 7:30 p.m. dinner: Dr. Guy F. Axtell, William France Sr., Charles Granwehr, Lansing Schoonmaker, Joseph Sweeney, Eugene Thornton, Roy Abeel, Thomas Thornton.

All Snyder Hose members are urged to make early arrangements to secure their tickets in advance.

Parish Council Approves Changes for Elections

SAUGERTIES

The Parish Council of St. Mary of the Snow approved recommendations for the conduct of elections to fill upcoming vacancies on the council.

The four recommendations were approved at a recent meeting held at the school cafeteria. They include that candidates be chosen from the parish at large rather than from election districts; to eliminate the guidelines for such election district choices; that elections take place in June and that the council membership remain at nine.

The Education Commission report by chairman Mrs. Maurice Patenaude noted a committee was established for the purpose of making the Sacraments of Holy Eucharist and Pennance more meaningful to the children of St. Mary's. Another committee was created to define and select a meaningful adult education program for the parishioners of St. Mary's.

Mrs. Patenaude also reported on the current activities of the Anti-Abortion function of the Education Commission. An anti-abortion demonstartion will be conducted at the Capitol Building in Albany on April 14 by the "To Celebrate Life Committee."

Robert Pelletier, director of the CCD Program, reported that the new marriage course was being well received by the senior high school group. In addition he indicated that the CCD Committee is currently laying out the curriculum for the September semester.

Karl Pietkiewicz, chairman of Spiritual Development Commission, announced that a combined commentator and ushers meeting with the Spiritual Development Commission was set up for 7:30 p.m. on April 14. The commission is also looking into all the various aspects of the 10:15 and 11:30 Masses with possible service dedicated to the youth of St. Mary's Parish.

Other council members present were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles Kaufmann, Sister Margaret Taylor, Donald Longtoe, Joseph Gavner, Alan Higgins, Mrs. Joseph Buser, Mrs. Charles Johnson, Mrs. John O'Rourke, William Freer and Frederick Beekert.

Talks Continuing

NEWBURGH

Theodore G. Daley, secretary-treasurer of Teamsters Local 445 said today that negotiations are continuing with employers in the moving and storage industry.

The strike affects Westchester County, the Hudson Valley and New York City and involves some 4,500 men of local 445 and New York City Local 814 with whom Local 445 is conducting joint negotiations. Daley expressed confidence that the negotiations will end in a fair and equitable agreement.

He also said that the men of Local 445 would be notified through the news media of the time and place of the ratification meeting which will be called by the Union at the successful termination of the current negotiations.

Contractor Wins $52 Million Suit

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A contractor working on the South Mall's five-story platform next to the Capitol has won a claim for nearly $52 million for added costs, the state's Office of General Services disclosed Thursday.

An OGS spokesman quoted by the Albany Times Union said Walsh-Corbetta Construction Co. would be paid an additional $51,973,000, hiking the platform's total cost to about $149 million.

The platform will form the base of a state office complex covering about 90 acres.

A claim submitted by the company said that the state had delayed starting work on the platform from April 1968 until July 1969.

Another firm, George A. Fuller Construction Co., was granted nearly $19 million more for supervising Mall construction. Its original contract was for $5,250,000.

Moose Members To Meet April 14

KINGSTON

Joseph Hutton, Governor of the Kingston Lodge No. 970 requests that all members attend the meeting to be held at the lodge quarters, 82 Prince Street, on Wednesday April 14. This meeting is the annual election of officers for the coming year and several offices are being contested.

Republican Club Program to Be On Assessments

SAUGERTIES

The Town of Saugerties Republican Club will hold its regular meeting, Thursday, April 15, at 8 p. m., at the Flamingo Restaurant, Route 9W, with Vice President Joseph M. Mayone presiding in the absence of President Henry Breitenbach, who will be on vacation.

Program Chairman Freeman Lasher announced that the guest speaker will be Jack Reynolds, director of Ulster County Real Property Tax Service Agency. Reynolds topic will be "Assessment Improvement 1970."

He will discuss the assessor's position in town, county, and state government in relation to the changes in the law brought about by the State Assessment Improvement 1970 bill. He will also describe the formation of a Review Board.

Vice President Mayone urges all enrolled Republicans to attend the April 15 meeting and hear first hand tax assessment information every property owner should know.

The business meeting and program will be followed by a social hour and refreshments.

Kindergarten Registration at Onteora

WOODSTOCK

Kindergarten registration in the Onteora Schools for the term beginning September 1971 will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 27 and 28, according to the following schedule:

Bennett School — Tuesday, April 27, 9-11 a.m. and Wednesday, April 28, 1-3 p.m.

Phoenicia School — Tuesday, April 27, 1-3 p.m. and Wednesday, April 28, 9-11 a.m.

West Hurley School—Tuesday, April 27, 9-11 a.m. and Wednesday, April 28, 1-3 p.m.

Woodstock School — Tuesday, April 27, 1-3 p.m. and Wednesday, April 28, 9-11 a.m.

Letters will be mailed during the week of April 19 informing parents of the registration location for their child. Children should be registered in the building they will attend in the fall on a convenient day and time according to the schedule above. Newcomers to the area may call the Bennett School at Boiceville to determine the building at which their child should be registered.

In order to be eligible for kindergarten in 1971, a child must be five years old on or before Dec. 1, 1971. Proof of the child's birthdate and proof of immunization against smallpox, polio, measles, and Rubella (German measles) must be presented at the time of registration.

Completed health history forms should also be presented when the child is registered. Health history forms will be mailed in the letters informing parents of kindergarten registration.

Two Demonstrations for Peace Scheduled

NEW PALTZ

Two demonstrations relating to peace are scheduled, one a trip to Washington, D. C., and another to the Peace Bridge at Buffalo.

Members of the anti-war group, the Group for Reconciliation of People Everywhere (GROPE) will conduct a peace pilgrimage from New Paltz through New York State to the Peace Bridge in Buffalo this weekend according to Mike Stamm, a GROPE coordinator.

About 15 buses from the Mid-Hudson Valley will be making the April 24 trip to Washington, D. C. to protest the United States involvement in Vietnam and call for immediate withdrawal of troops and the abolition of the draft.

A delegation of four or five people from GROPE left New Paltz by car at 9 a.m. today, Stamm said, and will go to Albany for meetings with Albany peace groups such as the Albany Peace Center and the Albany Peace Meeting. They will conduct a "meal of reconciliation" there in the evening, according to Stamm.

A second delegation will hitchhike from New Paltz to Syracuse. The number in this group is not yet determined. They also departed today and hope to arrive at Syracuse that evening, continuing on to Buffalo on Saturday.

According to Stamm, tentative plans call for a "meal of reconciliation" in Buffalo Saturday night followed by an all-night vigil and an early morning worship service at the entrance to Peace Bridge.

One of the local organizers of the Washington trip, Rick Litton of Tivoli, told The Freeman this week that the buses would be predominantly filled with college students from New Paltz, Bard, Ulster and Dutchess Community Colleges, Bennett, Vassar, and Marist.

They will probably leave late the night of April 23 to reach Washington in time for the 11 a.m. massing before the march. The route this time will end at the Capitol.

Student Mobilization is the largest single organization in the National Peace Action Coalition, and has been instrumental in most of the local work.

Says The Green Thumb

Time Is Ripe for Scarlet Sage

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

One of the flashiest annuals we have is the fiery red salvia, sometime called scarlet sage.

Start your seed now in a loose mixture. Simply sprinkle the seed on top and press it into the mixture lightly, without covering. A plastic sheet over the top will help hold moisture and prevent drying out. Keep in a temperature of 75 to 80 degrees. Less than this will cause seed to rot. When seedlings are one-half inch or so high, they can be transplanted into small pots or into small boxes. Grow in temperature of 60 degrees. Savlia will not do well in a 50 degree temperature, and when warm weather rolls around you can transplant them outdoors. They prefer full sun, but we've seen them grow well in some shade.

NOTE: If your complaint has been "all bush and no flower spikes" then perhaps it's the variety. The taller the variety the later it blooms. For example, Bonfire or Splendens Tall, will not start to show color until August which means that frost might come around in about three or four weeks after color shows. Fireball grows about 10 inches high, blooms around June 20. St. John's Fire blooms around 1st of July, and grows 12 inches high. Blaze of Fire, Red Pillar and Cardinal bloom around July 10, and grow 14 to 16 inches high.

COPING WITH PROBLEM SOILS: The soil around your home is full of life, even if you can't see it. If you went out and scooped up a teaspoonful of it, you'd have as many as five billion living organisms in your hand. Keep these helpful workers happy through sound soil management. If your soil is clay, don't be discouraged. Use a home-made soil conditioner such as lawn clippings, corncobs, leaves, garbage, compost, coal and wood ashes, saw dust, peatmoss, wood chips, muck and any other form of organic matter. Humus opens the clay, encourages earthworms to be more active helpers. Earthworms enrich the earth by passing more than 10 tons of dry earth through their bodies in one acre alone.

Adding sand to a clay-like soil will not loosen it, and may result in a concrete-like mixture harder than the original clay. Limestone has a loosening effect on clay, coagulating the fine particles into larger ones, allowing air and water to pass freely. Never work a clay soil when it's wet. One day's work in a wet clay soil can make it hard the rest of the year.

FREE: If your soil seems heavy, drains poorly, bakes in summer or seems just plain fagged out, better send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope for my bulletin, "Good Luck from Poor Soils." Our guide tells how to build up the home garden soil.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: "Please tell us when's the best time to plant roses—spring or fall?"

Answer: I favor spring planting. Dormant bareroot stock comes thru better from spring planting. Plant roses in a loose, well-fed soil. Holes should be large enough so that roots can be spread out and the plant placed so that the "bud mark" is at least two inches below ground level. Never let bare roots be exposed to drying winds or sunlight. Roses will grow in almost any soil that's fairly well drained. If yours is a clay type, use one bushel of peat to three bushels of soil.

Don't Crowd Trees Space Helps Growth

When planting shade trees, where they are planted is very important. They need living space in which to stretch their branches and send out roots. Man cannot live without trees and planting trees is urged throughout the country, especially now to help in reducing air pollution, and for their beauty.

A haphazard choice of location can lead to trouble, according to Mr. Robert A. Bartlett, president of the F. A. Bartlett Tree Expert Company. In 10, 20, or 30 years a 10-foot sapling can become a big tree. Planted too close to a house its branches may scrape the roof; or too close to a drive or sidewalk, the roots may cause the pavement to heave. If two trees are planted too close to each other, neither may thrive well.

The area a shade tree requires depends upon the species and soil conditions. If it has an eventual 40-foot branch spread then it will need approximately a 40-foot wide area of living space.

Location and choice of trees in the rear area of suburban plots are important too. It is unwise to have trees shading a swimming pool and if the pool is to be kept free of leaves. A shade tree and patio are compatible if when building the patio the tree roots are not severed and the root system has continued access to food and water.

Lawns will grow well beneath trees if the trees are trimmed to open filtered shade and the lower branches raised. Such trees should be fed regularly so that tree roots do not compete with turf for food and water.

Charles Coody Has Early Lead in Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—The way Texan Charlie Coody figures it, the nightmare he lived through two years ago when he let a chance at the Masters golf championship slip through his fingers may be just the thing that wins it for him this year.

The 33-year-old Coody, who never has won a major championship in eight years as a tournament golfer, stormed out of the pack with a six-under-par 66 in Thursday's opening round of the Masters to grab a three-stroke lead over five golfers tied at 69.

And the thought in everyone's mind, including Charlie Coody's, was—remember 1969.

That was the year when the wild final round of the Masters suddenly found Coody the leader as he walked toward the 16th tee, three holes to play. But something happened there under the towering southern pines and the Abilene, Tex., pro bogeyed every one of those last three holes to finish two strokes behind winner George Archer.

"I hope I learn something from experience," said the tall, dark-haired Coody quietly. "I thought about what happened a lot, and I know what I did wrong. I played in too much of a hurry; I wasn't thinking through my shots; and I missed the green on all three holes.

"What I learned from that helped me to win another tournament later that year, the Cleveland Open," he added. "Maybe someday it will help me to win a major championship—maybe this one this year."

Coody, tall, slope-shouldered, and laconic, seized the first-round lead with a three-birdie burst from the 13th through the 15th holes just when it seemed that 69 probably would be good enough for first place. In the five-way tie at 69 were Bob Murphy, Don January, Ray Floyd, Bob Lunn, and dark-horse Hale Irwin.

Tied at 70, four strokes behind Coody, were tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus and Dale Douglass. At one-under-par 71 were Bert Yancey, Tom Weiskopf, and 47-year-old Art Wall, and a dozen were tied at par 72, including defending champion Billy Casper and the man he beat in last year's playoff, Gene Littler, plus South African Gary Player.

Arnold Palmer, after "the worst round I've played this year," was in another logjam at 73, along with Archer and U.S Open champion Tony Jacklin of England.

The key to Coody's first-round play, which included six birdies and 12 pars, was that he birdied every single one of the four par-five holes.

"I consider myself a good driver," explained Coody. "I hit real good drives on each of those holes and my second shots were reasonably good, so that I was able to use my putter for my third shot on every one of them."

Coody picked up his other two birdies on par-fours—the 10th when he knocked his iron shot two feet from the pin, and the 14th when he holed out a 40-foot chip shot from a trap.

The tall Texan hasn't won a tournament since that '69 Cleveland Open and he admits 1971 hasn't been too good for him so far. His best finish this year was a fourth place in the National Airlines Open two weeks ago, but something happened there that's helping him here, he says.

"It seems like every year I go through a period when my putting goes sub-par, or what I consider sub-par, for a while," he said. "that was happening early this year, but I began putting real well in the National Airlines, and that has given me confidence in my putting here."

Coody admitted he was "a little charged up" by his opening round—"at the end there I told my caddy it was too bad it wasn't a marathon 72-hole tournament, you know, play right through."

But he insisted on pointing out, "There's 54 holes to go, and that three-stroke lead just puts me in a very good position."

Except for the '69 Masters, Coody admits he's never been in a strong contending position in a major championship.

"I've been close at the start of the final round in a couple of PGAs and a couple of Opens, but I never got that real big round you need to win."

Nicklaus, who won the PGA in February and is taking aim at becoming the first man to win all four major pro championships, a pro "grand slam," of the PGA, Masters, U.S. Open, and British Open in the same year, played a steady round with two birdies and 16 pars. Nicklaus thought his 70 could have been a 68 if he hadn't lifted his head twice when he was putting.

The second time was on the 18th green and as he walked off his wife said, "You did it again, Jack. That's twice today."

Jack grinned, and nodded, and that time it didn't cost him a stroke.

Palmer Very Critical of His Performance

DEJECTED BEAR!—A disgusted Jack Nicklaus wears a frown as he misses a putt on the seventh. Nicklaus finished the day with a two-under 70 for the opening round of the Masters. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Arnold Palmer was disgusted—with himself.

The four-time Masters champion, apparently, at 41 years of age, in the best shape to win here that he has been in many years, had just shot a 73, leaving him seven strokes off leader Charles Coody's pace—and he didn't like it.

"Are there any ladies present?" Palmer quipped when asked to talk about his play in Thursday's opening round of the Masters.

"Everything went wrong," said the general of "Arnie's Army. "I played atrociously. It was my worst round of the year. I hit the ball very poorly. I can't recall anything I did well."

There have been times in recent years when Arnold Palmer would not have been that upset by a 73. After all, it has been seven years since he won his last Masters Crown and in the past three Masters he finished no higher than 27th, even missing the cut in 1968 when he shot a 79 in the second round.

But this has been a different Palmer this year. Winner of the Bob Hope Desert Classic and Florida Citrus Invitational and No. 1 man on this year's money list with nearly $100,000, Palmer had been par or better in 36 of 41 rounds and had been averaging 69.85 strokes per 18 holes.

"Although I knew I wasn't playing well at all, I thought that I was going to get away with it like I used to do here when those back-to-back birdies (at Nos. 6 and 7) had me one under. But 8 and 10 really hurt me."

Palmer was hole high in two on the 530-yard, par five eight hole and seemingly in good position to chalk up his third straight birdie. But he ran his approach shot over the green, chipped back too weak and then missed the six footer he needed for a par.

But that was only a sample of how bad things got at No. 10.

He was in a trap to the right of the green and blasted out to within five feet of the cup for what looked like a par. He missed the five-footer by eight inches, then missed the eight-incher to wind up with a double bogey.

"That's happening to me too often these days," Palmer grumbled. "I missed two even shorter than eight inches in the PGA championship.

"This one wasn't really careless as those may have been," the golfing millionaire continued. "I looked at the putt and I hit it. It wasn't long enough, not even from eight inches away.

"But I guess if I had really taken my time I would have made it."

Palmer's troubles for the day still weren't over. He failed to get out of a trap on the first try at No. 12 and was three over par before a couple of late birdies got him back up to an 11-way tie for 24th place in the field of 77.

"The thing that really upsets me is that I really have been pointing for this tournament," Palmer said. "I haven't won a major tournament since I won the Masters in '64 and while I enjoyed winning some of the other tournaments, the thing that has been on my mind of late has been to win another big one."

Arnie might take some consolation from the fact that he shot 73 or higher in at least one round of three of the four masters he won.

Renko Has Poise Under Fire

NEW YORK (UPI)—Steve Renko, who vowed this spring he would become a pitcher rather than just a "thrower," Thursday showed he had indeed learned some of the finer points of his profession.

The 6-foot-5 235-pound righthander turned in a route-going performance and showed the poise of a professional pitcher in a crucial fourth inning situation, as he hurled the Montreal Expos to a 6-2 triumph over the New York Mets.

Renko allowed 10 hits, including Cleon Jones' first homer of the season, but the big righthander was tough in the clutch.

This was most evident in the fourth when the Mets loaded the bases following Jones' homer on successive singles by Donn Clendenon, Ken Boswell and Bob Aspromonte. The Expos led, 3-2, at the time and with two pitchers warming up in the bullpen it was expected that Renko would be taken out if he failed to retire the next batter, Jerry Grote.

A further annoyance was the fact that both Boswell and Aspromonte's hits were of the fluke variety. It was enough to upset the best of pitchers. However, Renko showed he had learned a great deal from last season as he struck out Grote and pitcher Gary Gentry to retire the side.

"A part of my trouble has always been that I worry too much," said Renko. "A cheap hit, or an error and I would always worry what was going to happen but Gene (Mauch) came out to the mound after those three hits and told me not to let it bother me. He said settle down and go right back and get them. It helped. He gave me confidence."

"I went to spring training with the idea that I was going to become a pitcher instead of a thrower, and I had a good spring," he added. "I felt really good. I feel real good right now. I've always been a slow starter and maybe this is a sign that I'm going to have a good season but you never know what's going to happen when you go out there. There may be only three or four times a year when you've got everything together."

Renko's batterymate, John Bateman, provided most of the Expos' offensive punch. Bateman drove in a run with an infield out during a three-run first inning and delivered a two-out two-run single in a three-run seventh which broke the game open.

Baptism for Rookie Stone

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Single, home run, single, double, walk. How's that for a major league baseball debut?

Pitching, not hitting.

That's what San Francisco's rookie right-hander Steve Stone ran into in his first inning in the big time Thursday night.

"I wasn't nervous, but I didn't have very good stuff when I warmed up or when I started the game," said the 23-year-old.

Actually, Stone wasn't around long enough to be nervous anyway. Sent to the showers in the fourth after a shower of hits, he listened on the radio as San Diego pulled out a wild and whacky 7-6 decision with a three-run ninth.

"Stone didn't throw like he did when he pitched against us in spring training," said San Diego Manager Preston Gomez, who watched his team waste a three-run lead in the seventh, then win dramatically on Nate Colbert's ninth-inning sacrifice fly.

From the start, it didn't look like the Giants' night—or Stone's for that matter—as the Padres stung the youngster for four first-inning hits, including Larry Stahl's two-run homer. Chris Cannizzarro's fourth-inning single, the seventh hit, chased Stone and Cannizzarro's later came around on Steve Arlin's single to make it 4-1.

But the Giants sprinted into a 6-4 lead on the wings of a five-run seventh, including Willie Mays' eighth career grand slam home run and 631st lifetime wallop.

That was it until the ninth when singles by Don Mason, Dave Campbell, Stahl and Clarence Gaston tied the game and set the stage for Colbert's game-winning belt to center.

Elsewhere in the National League, it was Pittsburgh 2, Philadelphia 0; Montreal 6, New York 2 and Houston 7, Chicago 3. Cleveland trimmed Boston 3-2 and Kansas City took a 3-2 decision over California in the American League.

Willie Stargell delivered a screaming, two-run double in the sixth inning and Luke Walker handcuffed Philadelphia on five hits in Pittsburgh's triumph.

Jack Hiatt, formerly with Chicago, drove in the first two runs with doubles and Jack Billingham unfurled a four-hitter for Houston.

Playing against his former mates, Hiatt said, "Naturally, you try to do a little bit better subconsciously and then you do it."

"It feels good," Hiatt added, "but I've played with too many ball clubs to be trying to get revenge on them all for trading me."

Hiatt came to the Astros from Chicago last fall and this was his first shot at the Cubs.

His second-inning double off Ken Holtzman followed a double by Dennis Menke. In the fourth, Hiatt chased home the first of three Astro runs with another safety.

Rookie Gomer Hodge's two-out, two-run single in the ninth propelled Cleveland over Boston before a crowd of 40,462, the largest home opener for the Indians since 1965, when 44,185 showed up.

Hodge, who had doubled as a pinch-hitter and scored in the eighth, singled off Ken Tatum to chase home Ray Fosse and Doug Camilli.

Boston had taken a 2-0 lead on two homers—Luis Aparicio's in the third and pitcher Sonny Siebert's in the fifth.

Mike Hedlund and Jim York pitched seven-hit ball and Kansas City made good on three California errors, two by usually reliable shortstop Jim Fregosi.

The Royals scored their first run in the second when Hedlund chased home Bob Oliver with a single after Fregosi opened the door with an infield bobble. An error by left fielder Alex Johnson and another miscue by Fregosi added fuel to another Royal rally in the third inning. Cookie Rojas knocked in what proved to be the winning runs with a two-run double.

Yankees Get Felipe Alou

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees acquired outfielder Felipe Alou from Oakland Friday in a trade for pitchers Ron Klimkowski and Rob Gardner.

Alou carried the ninth highest batting average among American Leaguers into the 1971 season after hitting .271 with eight homers and 55 runs batted in for the A's last season. He came to Oakland following the 1969 season in a trade with Atlanta.

Klimkowski posted a 6-7 record in relief last season as a rookie while Gardner, who earlier this week was cut by the Yankees, had a 16-5 record with a league-leading 2.53 ERA at the Yankees' Syracuse farm club in the International League.

Two of Another Kind

CHARLES J. TIANO

We have a suggestion for Joseph Colombo Sr. and Joseph Colombo Jr. and anyone else whose last name ends in a vowel. Why not knock off the movie censorship business and take time out to recognize a couple of Italian-American athletes who are ennobling the race at the moment.

Take Johnny Petraglia and Phil Esposito, for example. Here are a couple of the finest athletes of the day. Their only racket is being just about the best in their business right now—bowling and hockey.

Why get involved in questionable crusades like forcing the producers of Mario Puzo's "The Godfather" to eliminate terms like Mafia and Cosa Notra from the forthcoming film? Will this adventure in semantics eliminate the rackets with which a lot of guys whose names end in vowels have been affiliated, lo these many years?

When I was a youngster in an Italian-American ghetto, there was an even more sinister word to describe the underworld of that era. They called it the black hand. It was a sure way to frighten people. All you had to say was, better watch out, the black hand will get you. We survived it. .. ..

We think that State Senator John Marchi put the whole question in proper perspective when he said, in effect, it's baloney, anyway you slice it. The vast majority of United States citizens of Italian-American origin have learned to live with this side of their heritage and surmounted it. We don't recall Joe Valachi reeling off too many Scandinavian names.

JOHNNY PETRAGLIA is a particularly significant athlete of the moment, we think, because he has restored the American of Italian parentage to pre-eminence in bowling. During the current Professional Bowlers Association TV tour, he has won three consecutive tournaments—a feat matched only by the incomparable Dick Weber.

Young Petraglia, a strong-armed left-hander out of Brooklyn, won the $100,000 Firestone event (the masters of bowling) and added three other firsts in the 13-week tour to accumulate earnings of $65,000. That leaves him only $1,200 away from a new single season money record and the 1971 tour is just about half over.

Just behind Petraglia is another young Italian-American lad, Mike Limongello of Long Island, who is steadily working his way toward the Top Ten in American bowling.

THERE WAS A TIME when the Italian-Americans completely dominated bowling. It was primarily a team sport and head-to-head singles confrontations. The Italo-Americans eventually faded from the scene and Don Carters, Dick Webers, Ray Bluths, Ed Lubanskis and others moved front and center in the professional bowling spotlight.

Jimmy Smith, born Jimmy Carrara in Brooklyn, was the first great Italian-American tenpin ace. He was the undisputed match game player of his time, roaming the country for one-night stands against the best in each town. There was no organized national competition in those days.

Barney Spinella, another Brooklynite, won an ABC all-events title and Joe Falcaro, a recognized national champion before the PBA and All Star, was easily the most colorful of all the Italo-Americans..

There were many others—Jim Murgie of Philadelphia, who in opening bowling decked three consecutive 300s; Frank Caruana of Buffalo, who rolled 300s back to back; Hank Marino of Milwaukee, Bowler of Half Century; Tony Sparanda, Hall of Famer, Mike Shirghio, Eddie Botten, Lau Campi, Frank Santoro and Walter (Skang) Mercurio of Cleveland, who still holds the all-time world's record of 232 average for 81 league games.

But the greatest of all the Italo-Americans has to be Andy Varipapa, who is now 80. He is the best known of his peers, the most famous trick shot bowler in history, two-time National All Star champion and bowling's finest ambassador of good will for more than 50 years.

PHIL ESPOSITO of the Boston Bruins, like Petraglia has rewritten the record book this season. His 76 goals and 76 assists for 152 points are unprecedented in National Hockey history. He also holds the record for 13 goals in 14 Stanley Cup playoff games and like Petraglia is still a young man.

Like we said earlier, the only racket these lads have is being the best in their business.

IT IS INTERESTING to note that Bill Bunetta, the ABC Hall of Famer who addressed the KBA dinner last weekend, named only one Italo-American on his all-time bowling. Please note, his name also ends in a vowel.

Bunetta picked four men without hesitation — Don Carter, Dick Weber, Junie McMahon and Ed Lubanski. For his fifth choice, he gave Lou Campi, the "wrong-foot" bowler from New Jersey a slight edge over the late Steve Nagy of Cleveland.

Bunetta put Petraglia at the top of his "young bowlers" list, along with Don Johnson, Dave Davis, Nelson Burton Jr. and Limongello.

"They're better than the bowlers in my time," said Bunetta, who was raised in the era of wooden pins and iron men. He calls himself the last of the "brickyard shooters."

WITH BOWLING SEEKING to improve its image, Bunetta said "we're trying to dress them up and have some control over their hair, but they're great just the same.."

In one bowling house of 250 lanes in Tokyo, Japan, the waiting list for a lane is sometimes three days.

"We don't have those problems in America, but we're trying to get more fun into bowling," he said. One guy came up with a bright idea and suggested that bowlers should smile more after getting a strike. After all, they've just tied a world record for one frame.

Even Colombo Sr. and Jr. could hardly fault that.

Kentucky, Floridians Even in ABA Playoffs

MIAMI (AP — The Floridians held highpowered Kentucky rookie center Dan Issel to 16 points Thursday while Mack Calvin poured in 35 for a 129-117 Floridian win to even the ABA Eastern Division semifinal playoffs at two games each.

Ira Harge seconded the Floridian effort with 21 points and scoring. Kentucky was out 20 rebounds to support Calvin's gunned by the Floridians from the floor 51 to 41 per cent.

Issel lead a fourth quarter assault by the Colonels that narrowed a 16-point Floridian lead to three points but fouled out. Without him, the Colonels' rally withered.

Issel's total was his lowest in the playoffs and his most meager effort against the Floridians all season.

The best-of-seven series resumes Saturday in Louisville, Ky., where the home court saw Kentucky win the opening two games.

Cincy Powell, who was involved in a fist fight in Tuesday's third game, also fouled out for the Colonels in the final quarter.

Lee Hunter scored 24 points for the Colonels.

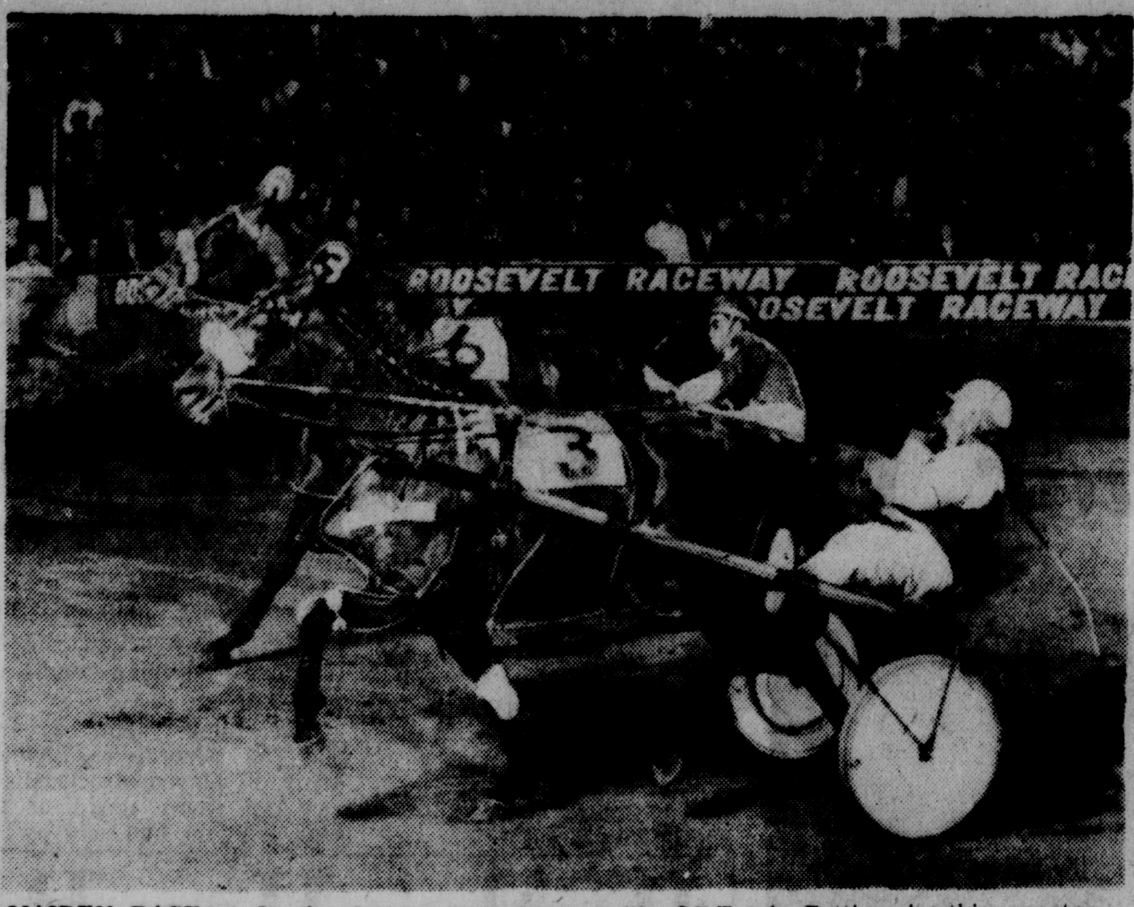
OTB Pleases Old Bookie

By TOM KELLY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Blinkers cast a critical eye at the operation of the Off-Track Betting Corp. parlor in Forest Hills, Queens, and said that he thought that, on the whole, it was "a beauty-ful setup."

Blinkers has been a bookie in the Queens area for some 35 years and said he expects to remain in business "Without much loss of revenue for a few more years," despite the OTB.

"Kid,"—that's what Blinkers calls all his friends—"with a few changes this setup would add prestige to any candy store or barber shop I ever worked out of in the good old days."



MAIDEN RACE — In the first race ever run with Off-Track Betting in this country, Title Song (3) with John Chapman at the reins, crosses the finish line a nose ahead of Kammy's Dream High (6) at Roosevelt Raceway Thursday night. Under the OTB system, designed to raise revenue primarily for New York City, offtrack wagers are taxed at the same basic 17 per cent as ontrack wagers (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Blinkers, who said Thursday he was in his "very early 60s," thought that one of the main faults of the "setup" was, "how slow the old folks behind the windows operate, especially the women."

When informed that OTB window tellers will not be held responsible for counterfeit bills, as tellers at the race tracks are, Blinkers laughed and said," Don't tell that to nobody else or they'll never get a good bill in this setup."

A change that should be made immediately is "the jocks and the odds should be posted next to the pony," he said.

"Horse players always like to see how much money they're goin' to get back when the nag wins," Blinkers stated.

Blinkers said tha it was no surprise that big crowds attended the opening of the OTB "setup."

"Why do you think we have so many soaps and cars on the market?", Blinkers asked. "Because, people love to try something new—what's the old saying—variety is the spice of life," Blinkers answered himself.

"When this setup turns the quarter pole," Blinkers stated, "they will be able to handle a lot of action, but me and some of my associates don't think they'll ever be able to handle football, baseball, basketball, hockey, fights and tennis matches."

"And that, Kid, is where the dough is at."

At this point, a man looking to place a bet walked up to Blinkers and asked him," Hey, Blinkers, do me a favor and take this. I was goin' to try this thing (OTB) out, but I can't wait any longer."

Stroking his white hair, Blinkers said, "You know better than that. Call the office. What do you want to do, give this setup and me a bad name?."

"See Kid, people like that should come to a place like this because they don't know how to act and deal with class—how could he ever pick a winner?—I ask you."

After looking around for almost an hour Blinkers asked," have you got a hook in this joint, Kid?"

With this, Blinkers leaned against an automobile parked in front of the "setup" and started to remove his shoe.

"I think I'll put a few down." About 15 minutes later he entered the "setup" to place a "little wager." He refused to name the horses he picked from the card at Roosevelt Raceway.

However, Blinkers received a big smile from the lady behind the window as he passed his selections and $100 bills through the window.

Hannum Switches To Denver

By KEN HOSKINS

DENVER (AP) — Alex Hannum set about today to change the fortunes of the Denver Rockets.

Hannum, with 22 years in pro basketball as a player and coach, resigned Thursday as coach of the San Diego Rockets of the National Basketball Association to become president, general manager and coach of Denver's American Basketball Association franchise.

"He's going to have complete charge of managing, directing and coaching," said owner Bill Ringsby, who added that the 4-year-old Rockets have been after Hannum since the beginning.

"I'm looking for immediate results," said Ringsby, a trucking firm executive. 'We want to win a championship and, given a reasonable length of time, he'll do it. He's a champion."

Hannum, 48, comes to the Rockets with 12 years pro coaching experience. Before joining San Diego in December 1969, he coached the St. Louis Hawks, Philadelphia 76ers and the Oakland Oaks. He's the only coach to win titles in both leagues.

He said the determining factor in his decision to leave San Diego, where his team finished third this year in the NBA Pacific Division with a 40-42 mark, was the Ringsby offer for complete freedom of operation.

"The scope of power they (Ringsby and son, Don) have given me is probably the most important factor," Hannum said. "They want someone to run it and that's what I want."

The other factor he cited was the contract, a five-year package which includes an option for profit sharing and participation in ownership of the franchise.

"It's a very lucrative contract as far as I'm concerned," Hannum said. "It's the best I've ever been offered in pro basketball."

In San Diego, General Manager Pete Newell termed Hannum's action a breach of faith. He said there was a verbal agreement that Hannum remain with San Diego at least until June.

Both Newell and team President Bob Breitbard said, however, no legal action was planned. A replacement for Hannum has not yet been considered, he added.

The Spring instruction classes of the Mid-Hudson Kennel Club will be held every Monday for 10 weeks, beginning at 7 p.m. April 12th, in the 4-H Club Building on the Dutchess County Fairgrounds.

Instruction will be given in breed ring handling and obedience training for beginning dogs and handlers, novice and pre-novice. Mrs. Gloria Arata, Rhinebeck and Dr. John Lounsbury, Wappingers Falls will handle the various classes.

The complete course fee is $10.00 and entries will be limited to the first 15 in breed class and 20 in obedience. Further information may be obtained by contacting the instructors.

Lime Park Announces Race Schedule for '71

LIME ROCK, Conn. — Lime Rock Park today released the track's 1971 road racing schedule. Featured are two Sports Car Club of America professional races, two SCCA National Championship race programs, six area championship race programs, and a score of club sponsored events.

The Schaefer Trans-Am at Lime Rock will open the road racing season on Saturday, May 8th. It will also be the first event in the Trans-Am series in 1971. With increased purses, over $40,000 per race, and a host of strong independents out to beat the lone factory-backed team of Sunoco Javelins, the Schafer Trans-Am will be the most important race in the series.

Maintaining its reputation as the Road Racing Center of the East, Lime Rock will again host two SCCA National Championship race programs of nine races each. The races will run on Monday, May 31st, and Monday, July 5th, with the preceding Saturdays devoted to preactice and qualifying. Production cars, such as Corvette, Cobra, Datsun, Porche, MG and Triumph, sports racers, such as McLaren, Lola and Lotus, and formula cars, including the new Super Vee, will compete in 30-minute races around Lime Rock's 1.53-mile road course.

The season finale at Lime Rock will also be the last event in SCCA's L&M Continental 5000 Championship. As in previous years, the race for the Formula A cars will be held on Labor Day, Monday, September 6th. David Hobbs, who set a new absolute lap record of 108.42 mph in last year's race, is expected to return in the new Surtees TS7A in an attempt to lower that record and become the only two-time winner in Lime Rock professional racing history.

Sports car races and club events will be held at Lime Rock Park throughout the year, with six SCCA area championship races and more than Club-sponsored events. These club events range from time trials sponsored by several marque clubs to the Liverpool Motor Club's annual five hour relay race.

Ticket information may be obtained by writing the Lime Rock Park Office, P.O. Box 441, Lakeville, Connecticut, 06039. Lime Rock Park is located on Route 112 in Lime Rock, just west of the intersection with Route 7.

Mighty M Tradition Continues

MONTICELLO

Youth shall be served at Monticello Raceway, and in 1971, as has been the case so often in the past, harness racing's brightest prospects will play their trade at the Mighty M.

Since its inception 14 years ago, Monticello Raceway has been a revered "training ground" for promising horsemen. Long before Carmine Abbatiello won three consecutive driving championships at Roosevelt Raceway, he served an apprenticeship at the Catskill oval.

When Lucien Fontaine made the move from Montreal to New York, the transplanted Canadian found a home at Monticello. Fontaine, of course, went on to become the youngest driver in the sport to earn one million dollars in a single season.

Frank and Billy Popfinger, Real Cormier and Jack Quinn were driving title winners at the Mighty M before graduating to sulky stardom. And 1970 racing fans witnessed the debut of Dale Wood as a topnotch trainer and buyer of New Zealand standardbreds and the skyrocket climb of Gilles La Chance to the top of the driving fraternity.

With Monticello's April 29th opening just days away, a preview of 1971's most promising horsemen may provide a club to the track's next "superstar."

Jacques Dupuis is fashioning his career after fellow countrymen Fontaine and Chance. The 25-year-old Canadian is an aggressive catch driver who is currently training local favorite Sabik's Colt in addition to a pair of Anzac pacers, 14-year-old Blue Horse A, a $23,000 earner in 1970 and the recently acquired Henry Allen N.

Thirty year old Bob Bencal has developed a sharp eye for claiming horses at just the right time. In 1970 alone, Bencal acquired $16,000 earner Glen Vale for $6,000 and paid $10,000 for the 10 year old Shadydale Yankios who went on to win $19,021 for his new owners. This season, Bencal claimed the highly regarded Six Thirteen out of New York and has the pacer on his way to Monticello.

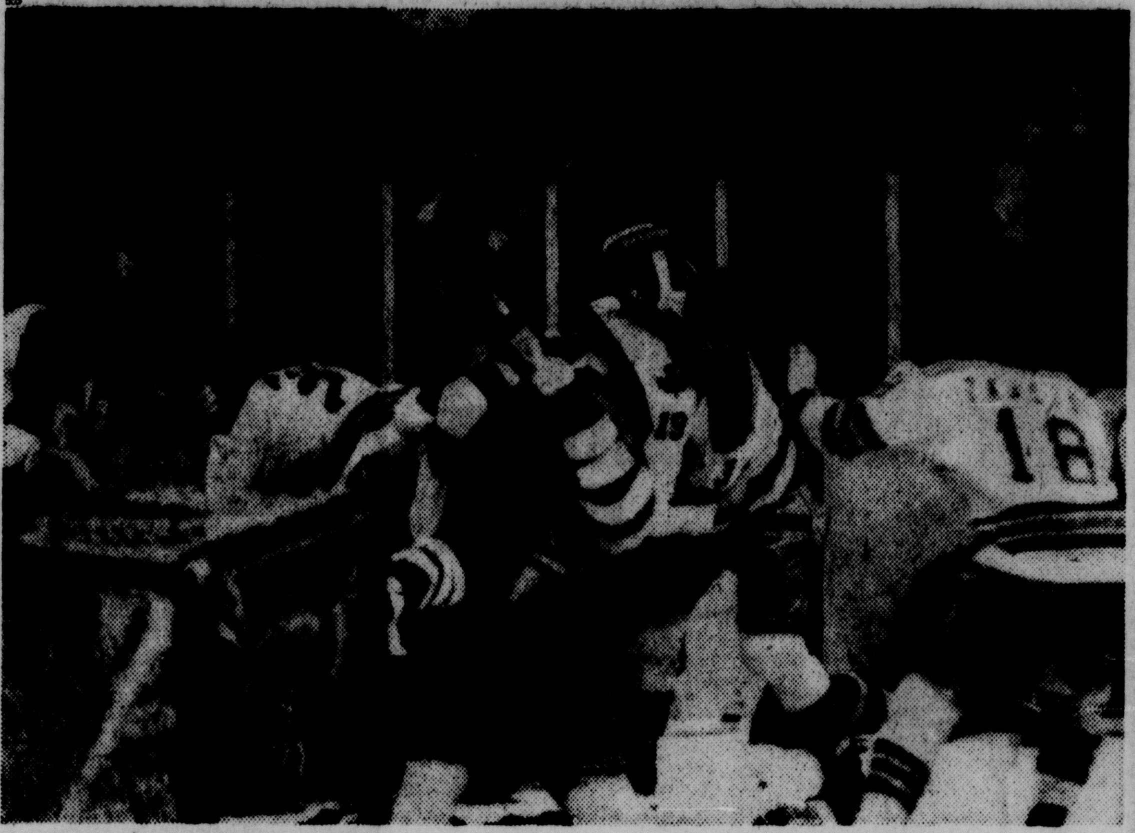
New Jersey's young Eddie Palmieri has a choice trio prepared for the Mighty M's opening program. The star of the stable is No Surrender, a six year old stallion who took $25,000 purse money last year and has already been good for $8,000 this year. Palmieri, who is shipping in from Liberty Bell Race Track, will also bed down a pair of 8 year olds, the steady By Order and speedy gelding, Top Fibre.

Ricky Kurtz and Don Prussack are city boys making good in a country sport. Kurtz, 30, is delivering 12 head to the Mighty M, including his stickout pacer, Jerry's Pluff. The 7-year-old gelding earned $20,000 last season and has already banked nearly $10,000 in 1971.

The Double R. Stable, for whom the native New Yorker trains, boasts a hard hitting trio of geldings in Larry Time, Sir Charles Pick and $11,000 winner Australian Southern Silver besides the fine young stallion, Painters Express.

The 28-year-old Prussack is currently prepping Flying Bret, the early 2-year-old sensation of the 1970 Grand Circuit Tour and the brilliant mare, Harmin, who has already earned $17,500 and a 2.04 mark at Roosevelt Raceway. Seven year old Tyros Hanover, winner of $36,000 in 1970 and such solid raceway stock as Raidal, TJQ and Buckpasser has Prussack guiding one of the liveliest barns at Monticello.

Home Teams Slip on NHL Ice



THE VIEW INSIDE — The marquee outside Madison Square Garden Thursday said hockey was being played inside but from this view of the ice you'd think it was fight night. Horizontal Maple Leaf player (note flying feet at center) is unidentified. Others are: Norm Ullman (9) Toronto; Brad Park (2) N. Y.; Paul Henderson (19) Toronto; Tim Horton (3) N. Y. and Walt Tkaczuk (18) N. Y. The brawl, in the final minute of the game, emptied both benches. Toronto won, 4-1 (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Rangers, Bruins Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The home ice advantage—so important to most National Hockey League teams—has disappeared in three of the four Stanley Cup quarter-final series.

The New York Rangers, who lost only twice at home in 39 games, during the regular season, and the Boston Bruins, who dropped only three games on their own ice, allowing Toronto and Montreal to even their East Division playoffs.

Toronto whipped New York 4-1 while Montreal exploded for five third period goals to shell the Bruins 7-5.

In the West, St. Louis, which lost its home opener Wednesday, squared its series by beating Minnesota 4-2 and Chicago took a two-game edge on Philadelphia, whipping the Flyers 6-2.

Toronto knocked off New York in a brawl-filled game that produced 33 penalties including eight misconducts and a total of 160 penalty minutes.

The Leafs got two goals from helmeted Paul Henderson, whose fractured cheekbone hasn't prevented him from scoring four times in the first two games of the series. Goaltender Bernie Parent lost his mask in one of the third period melees and veteran Jacques Plante had to play the final four minutes, 42 seconds of the game.

The Canadiens trailed by four goals late in the second period as Boston's Bobby Orr scored one goal and tied a Stanley Cup record by assisting on three other goals in the middle session.

But suddenly, Montreal found the spark after Henri Richard stole a puck from Orr to score with 4½ minutes left in the second period. Jean Beliveau, the Canadiens' 39-year-old captain, scored a pair of goals less than two minutes apart early in the third period and then Jacques Lemaire tied the score.

Then Beliveau fed John Ferguson with less than five minutes left and Frank Mahovlich added an insurance goal 80 seconds from the end.

"It's certainly one of the good ones," said Beliveau of the victory. "That's going to help the spirit and the morale."

Chicago blitzed Philadelphia with Bobby Hull scoring two goals for the second straight game and Stan Mikita also clicking twice.

"How do you contain Hull," asked Philadelphia Coach Vic Stasiuk. "He's scored four times in two nights and broke the games wide open."

The Hawks have outscored the Flyers 11-4 in the first two games of their series.

Jimmy Roberts scored two third period goals and Wayne Connelly one as St. Louis squares its series with Minnesota. Murray Oliver clicked twice for the North Stars, tying the game with just nine seconds gone in the final period before Roberts and Connelly restored the Blues' lead. Roberts' second goal into a vacated Minnesota net, wrapped up the victory.

"They've still got to win one in our building," said Minnesota Coach Jack Gordon, summing up the feelings of Toronto and Montreal as well after those three visitors managed splits on enemy ice in the opening games of their respective series.

Addition at Numrich Arms

Levy and Yankowski Early Fish Leaders

WEST HURLEY

Daniel Levy of Hurley is the early leader in the rainbow trout division of the Numrich Sports Center's $500 April Fishing Contest with a 19½ inch beauty.

Robert Freer of Kingston leads the pike division with 27-incher taken out of the Ashokan reservoir. The other top specimen in this class is the 20½-incher caught by James Garrison of West Hurley.

The best Brown to date is a 16¼-inch catch credited to Joe Miles of Kingston.

Doug Yankowski of Woodstock missed Levy's first place Rainbow by a half inch, but his three catches of 19, 18 and 17½ inches give him a clear edge in the production department. A 19¼ incher caught by Augustus Van Orden of Kerhonkson is in second place. Other top specimens entered were 18 and 17½ inch catches by Bob Terwilliger of Woodstock and a 16¾ incher by Jackie Ortleib of Kerhonkson.

The fishing department is something new at Numrich Arms, one of the world's largest gun centers.

"We've only been in the fishing line about a month," says owner George Numrich. "We expect much more action in the April contest than we've had to date."

What prompted Numrich to add a fishing department to his highly successful gun interests?

It's just an extra service we're providing for our regular gun customers who asked for it," replied Numrich. "We are moving in some of the finest merchandise in the world, including the Orvis line. And we'll maintain a fine service department."

"We are stocking the finest collection of lures and flies and will also carry bait," Numrich added. "We're not in this to compete against anybody. Our many New York City area patrons have been asking for something like this for a long time."

As a sidelight to the fishing department, Numrich has created a man-made half acre lake adjacent to the retail center for the enjoyment of anybody who wants to go there.

"The lake is stocked with all native species," Numrich pointed out. "I know there are trout, bass, perch, bullhead and other native fish in there." Interested persons may use the finest equipment, including Orvis to try their hand. "Of course, they'll have to throw any catches back into the lake," he added.

Numrich also announced plans for a series of fishing forums conducted by experts from the Orvis company. "We will have fly tieing sessions and there will be instructions in every phase of fishing art. We welcome the public to these free fishing clinics."

Hunting and fishing have always gone together," Numrich concluded. "It just took us a little longer to get around to it."

Name Advisory Committee For Regional Tournament

STONE RIDGE

Formation of an 11-member committee to plan for the Region XV golf tournament to be hosted by Ulster County Community College was announced today by Mike Perry, Athletic Director. The tournament will be held at Wiltwyck Country Club on May 13 and 14.

This is the first time UCCC has sponsored a regional golf tournament. Competing will be 114 golfers from 19 junior and community colleges.

"The response to the tournament has been quite enthusiastic," said Coach Perry, "and to date we've already received confirmations from 11 junior college teams who will be competing."

The committee planning the tournament includes Charles Tiano, sports editor of The Daily Freeman; Bill Van Aken, one of the top amateur golfers in the Mid-Hudson Valley; Don Berham sales manager of DeWitt-King Lincoln Mercury in Kingston; Brian White, Marlboro, a member of the Ulster County Legislature; Dick Thornton, Saugerties, also a member of the County Legislature; and Robert T. Brown, the Dean of Administration at UCCC.

Also Mrs. Mary Treat, Saugerties; and Mrs. George Heppner, Kingston, both active women golfers at the Wiltwyck Country Club; Arthur Ellis, a Kingston real estate broker; Bill Reilly, the golf professional at the Wiltwyck course; and J. C. Haviland, Assistant to the President at UCCC.

Lance on Probation

DALLAS (UPI)—Dallas Cowboy flanker Lance Rentzel Thursday received a five-year probated sentence on a charge of indecent exposure but said he did not intend to let the incident end his athletic career.

Rentzel pleaded guilty to the felony charge involving the November 1970 incident and received the probated sentence from District Judge John Mead. Mead could have sentenced Rentzel to 15 years in prison.

"This has been a very trying situation," Rentzel told newsmen after his court session. "I plan to work with my doctor until this problem is solved. I'm sorry I had to have my wife (singer Joey Heatherton) and family suffer because of this."

The 27-year-old receiver agreed to psychiatric and medical treatment. Rentzel's future in professional football seemed uncertain until his statement regarding his athletic career.

Rentzel voluntarily removed himself from the active Cowboy roster when he was indicted on the indecent exposure charge and generally had declined to speculate on his future.

He said Thursday, however, that his teammates had influenced his decision.

"I told them (his teammates) that I'd be back and I will," Rentzel said. "I can't end my athletic career this way."

Coach Tom Landry declined comment except to say Rentzel is "a member of our squad."

New Paltz's Earl Thurner Named to All-SUNY Squad

BUFFALO

Earl Thurner, high-scoring junior from New Paltz State, has been chosen to the State University Basketball All-Conference team announced today.

Thurner, who set a college record by averaging 22.6 points per game this season, joined seven other juniors and five seniors named to the SUNYAC's finest.

Randy Smith of league champion Buffalo State, and a recent draft pick by the Buffalo Braves of the National Basketball Association, was the top choice for the mythical squad.

Smith, a senior, was picked by all but one of the conference's coaches, while junior Durie Burns of Buffalo State finished second in the poll.

Others selected were:

Bob James, Brockport State, junior; John Collins, Brockport State, junior; Mike Eidel, Cortland State, junior from Poughkeepsie; Joe Roberts, Oneonta State, junior; Stan Janas, Geneseo State, junior; and Amos Goodwine, Fredonia State, senior.

Also listed were:

Dave May, Potsdam State, junior; Rich Woodward, Geneseo State, senior; Larry Miller, Oswego State, senior; and Pete Reilly, Potsdam State, junior.

Southside Club Sets Shoot Date

WEST HURLEY

The Southside Rod and Gun Club will stage a unique type of shoot for the Spring, Sunday, April 18th. The shoot will start at the club range at 11 a.m.

Instead of offering hams or turkeys, the prize for each event will be half of the entry fees. Besides the usual high power, bench rest, .22 rifle, shotgun slug and luck shoots, a .22 pistol event, "The Hanging Ham," will challenge the shooters. This event calls for the shooter to cut down a ham hanging 15 feet away, for a prize of, naturally, a five-pound ham.

CITY OF KINGSTON
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the Common Council of the City of Kingston will, in accordance with the provisions of Section 507(2)(d) of the General Municipal Law of the State of New York, as amended, hold a public hearing on April 22, 1971, at 7:30 p.m., at the Common Council Chambers, City Hall, Kingston, New York, to consider the approval of a proposed disposition of Disposition Parcel 36 in the Broadway East Urban Renewal Project, NY R-107 to St. Clara Church of God in Christ, a religious corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of New York (hereinafter referred to as "St. Clara Church").

Disposition Parcel 36 is to be used for institutional purposes in accordance with the Urban Renewal Plan for the Project. St. Clara Church contemplates the construction on Disposition Parcel 36 of a one-story masonry and steel structure.

Disposition Parcel 36 is a parcel of approximately 44,693.06 square feet in area generally located between Murray Street to the north and west and lands of the Penn-Central Company to the south and east, and is more fully described as follows:

All that certain piece or parcel of land situate in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster, and State of New York, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point where the southeasterly street line of Murray Street intersects the Northerly line of lands of the Penn-Central Company and running:

(1) thence from said point of beginning, along the Southeasterly street line of Murray Street, North 41° 25' 15" East, 527.24 feet to a point;

(2) thence along other lands of the Penn-Central Company, South 52° 15' East, 111.56 feet to a point, said last mentioned point being 20.00 feet measured radially Northwesterly from the centerline of the tracks of the Penn-Central Company;

(3) thence along the Northerly line of lands of the Penn-Central Company, Westerly on a curve to the right, having a radius of 553.00 feet, a distance of 301.45 feet to a point;

(4) thence still along the same, Westerly on a curve to the right, having a radius of 3,799.00 feet, a distance of 144.84 feet to a point;

(5) thence still along the same, South 62° 56' West, 121.54 feet to the place of beginning.

St. Clara Church has previously been found by the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency to be qualified and financially responsible to purchase and develop Disposition Parcel 36. The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency has, in accordance with its established rules and procedures, duly designated St. Clara Church as a qualified and eligible redeveloper of Disposition Parcel 36, and the Common Council of the City of Kingston has approved St. Clara Church as a qualified and eligible redeveloper.

The price to be paid by St. Clara Church for Disposition Parcel 36 is $5,000.00.

The essential terms of the Disposition Agreement to be executed by and between the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency and St. Clara Church are that St. Clara Church is to deliver to the Agency prior to or simultaneously with the execution of the Disposition Agreement a good faith deposit of $500.00 as security for the performance of its obligations under the Disposition Agreement; to pay $5,000.00 simultaneously with the delivery of the Deed; to submit Construction Plans for the improvements to be constructed within two (2) months from the date of the Disposition Agreement; to submit satisfactory evidence of equity capital and commitments for mortgage financing necessary for the construction of the improvements within thirty (30) days after the date of approval of the Construction Plans; to take title to Disposition Parcel 36 within sixty (60) days after the date of approval of the Construction Plans, or on June 1, 1971, whatever date is later; to commence construction of the improvements within thirty (30) days after the date of the Deed; and to complete construction within four (4) months after the date of the Deed.

The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency proposes to enter into the Disposition Agreement with St. Clara Church on or after April 22, 1971.

The Disposition Agreement will be available for public examination at the office of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, 436 Broadway, Kingston, New York for a period of ten (10) days, commencing April 9, 1971 and terminating April 22, 1971, between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The Broadway East Urban Renewal Project, NY R-107 is generally located between Lawrence Street and Delaware Avenue to the north, Hasbrouck Park to the west, Rondout Creek to the south, and Broadway and Livingston Street to the east, in the Rondout section of the City of Kingston.

AMENDED SHERIFF'S SALE

By virtue of an execution issued out of County Court, Kingston, New York, County of Ulster, I, the undersigned, Sheriff of Ulster County, have seized all the right, title and interest which the defendant, John McGrath, d/b/a Four Seasons Ski & Sport Shop, had on the 22nd day of January, 1971, or subsequent thereto, of, in and to the following described premises which I shall offer for sale at public auction as the law directs, at the Ulster County Court House in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster, New York, on the 9th day of June, 1971, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, to wit:

ALL THAT CERTAIN LOT, PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND situate, lying and being at Phoenicia, in the Town of Shandaken, in the County of Ulster and State of New York, and bounded as follows, viz:

BEGINNING in the center of the highway opposite the entrance to the Tremper House, and running thence southerly down and along the center of the highway leading to the Ulster & Delaware Railroad Depot, 164 feet to the bounds of Jacob H. Tremper Jr., thence easterly along his bounds 120 feet; thence northerly on a line parallel with the line first given 164 feet to the center of the highway; thence westerly along the center of the highway 120 feet to the place of beginning. Being a corner lot containing 72.3 square rods of land be the some more or less, also

ALL THAT CERTAIN LOT, PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND situate, lying and being at the Village of Phoenicia, in the Town of Shandaken, County of Ulster, and State of New York, and bounded as follows:

BEGINNING in the center of the highway at the southeast corner of the Tremper House lot and running thence in a southerly course across the flat in exact range with the northeast bounds of the said Tremper House Lot to the bounds of a lot of land owned by Jacob R. Tremper, on the south side of said highway; thence westerly along said Tremper's line to the easterly bounds of a lot of land conveyed to said John L. McGrath by West C. Newton and wife by deed dated the 26th day of April, 1882, and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's office; thence northerly along the line of said McGrath to the center of said Highway; thence easterly down the center of said highway to the place of beginning, containing by estimation about one acre of land, be the same more or less, also

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate and being in the Town of Shandaken, Ulster County, New York, at a place called Phoenicia, and to the south of the State Highway formerly known as the Ulster & Delaware Turnpike and described as follows:

BEGINNING at the center of the Bridge across the Esopus Creek and runs thence along the center of the road or highway north 8° 08' west to the lands of McGrath; thence north 77° 50' east 453 feet and 3 inches to a point; thence 13° 48' west 30 feet to a point; thence north 77° 50' east 382 feet to the center of the Ulster & Delaware Turnpike Road; thence along the center of said Turnpike Road south 52° 25' east 114 feet; thence south 26° 50' west about 283 feet to the center of middle line of the channel of the Esopus Creek; thence up and along the middle line of the Channel of said Esopus Creek to the place of beginning. EXCEPTING therefrom so much thereof as has been heretofore conveyed to the Church of St. Francis De Sales and others.

The first two parcels above described were conveyed by John L. McGrath to John J. McGrath, William J. McGrath, Mary Agnes McGrath, Ester T. McGrath, and Rose E. McGrath, by deed dated December 21, 1901, recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office June 19, 1917 in liber of deeds 461 at page 214. Ester T. McGrath, also known as Theresa McGrath died intestate in the County of Ulster February 14, 1942, leaving her surviving as sole distributees, William J. McGrath, John J. McGrath, Mary A. McGrath and Rose E. McGrath. John J. McGrath died intestate in the County of Ulster December 24, 1945 leaving his surviving as sole distributees, William J. McGrath, Rose E. McGrath and Mary A. McGrath. Mary A. McGrath died intestate in the County of Ulster February 17, 1953, leaving her surviving as sole distributees, William J. McGrath and Rose E. McGrath. The aforementioned three defendants were all unmarried and had no children.

The second parcel above described was conveyed by Sisters of St. Ursula of the Blessed Virgin of New York to William J. McGrath by deed dated August 15, 1932 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's office in liber of deeds 579 at page 15.

EXCEPTING OUT OF THE ABOVE THREE PARCELS so much thereof as was heretofore conveyed to Sam Davis in four deeds and to Elmer and Angelica Loveless.

ALSO ALL THAT LOT OR PARCEL OF LAND SITUATE in the Town of Shandaken, County of Ulster and State of New York, which was reserved unto the grantors herein in a certain deed made by them to Richard M. Wright dated December 15, 1918 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's office in liber 467 at page 310, but excepting out of such reserved lot so much as was heretofore conveyed by the parties of the first part to St. Francis De Sales Parish Corporation by deed dated August 30, 1957.

ALSO ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND situate in the Town of Shandaken, County of Ulster and State of New York, known and described as lots 19 and 20 of the Sherwood Tract, west of the Esopus Creek, containing 200 acres of land, more or less, heretofore on the 8th day of April, 1902, conveyed by John L. McGrath to John J. McGrath, James W. McGrath, Mary A. McGrath, Theresa McGrath and Rose A. McGrath by deed recorded on the 13th day of March, 1918 in the Ulster County Clerk's office in liber of deeds 463 at page 551.

Excepting so much of the last described lot as was heretofore conveyed to Emile E. and Carrie Savory, Lena Dampf, Elizabeth A. Brown, Lester Bell and Martha Bell, George Kirk, William H. McGrath, Robert Eadie, Esther Marks and Marcel Dupre. Also excepting and reserving so much thereof as was this date conveyed to John L. McGrath, which said parcel is described as follows: Beginning at a point in the center of the Esopus Creek, where the center line of said Creek is intersected by an extension of the line of stone wall marking the easterly bounds of lands of William H. McGrath (said stone wall is located between the present residence of William H. McGrath and John L. McGrath) and runs thence southwesterly along said stone wall and the extension thereof ((the easterly bounds of lands of William H. McGrath) to a brook marking the southerly bounds of lands of said William H. McGrath; thence easterly and northeasterly along the center of said brook as it winds and turns to the bounds of lands of George Kirk, being the easterly bounds of the parties of the first part; thence northerly along the westerly bounds of said Kirk and an extension of said bounds to the center of said Esopus Creek; thence down and along the center of said Esopus Creek as it winds and turns to the point and place of beginning. Excepting so much thereof as was heretofore conveyed to the Ulster & Delaware Railroad.

TOGETHER WITH all other lands and premises, remainders, reverters, and interests in real property of all nature and description which the parties of the first part may own in the Town of Shandaken, County of Ulster, New York, not hereinabove described or excepted, except the premises of the parties of the first part known as the Globe Hotel and the Newcombe lots, both of which were obtained by the parties of the first part by tax deeds from the Treasurer of the County of Ulster.

Parcel No. 2.

ALL THAT CERTAIN LOT, PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND situate and being in the Village of Phoenicia in the Town of Shandaken, Ulster County and State of New York, and bounded as follows, viz: Northerly by the center of Main Street; Easterly by the center of the Street leading from Main Street to the depot at the junction of the Ulster and Delaware and Stony Clove and Catskill Mountain Railroads, and Southerly and Westerly by the lands of the Stony Clove and Catskill Mountain Railroad Company. Said lot hereby conveyed being about six rods on Main Street; about fourteen rods on street aforesaid leading to depot, and about fourteen rods on the line of said Stony Clove and Catskill Mountain Railroad, and being nearly a three cornered lot or piece of land, containing by estimation one-fourth of an acre of land, be the same more or less. Being the same premises described in a certain deed dated April 8th, 1902 made by John L. McGrath to John J. McGrath and James W. McGrath, recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office June 19th, 1917 in Liber 461 of Deeds, Page 216. The said John J. McGrath died intestate a resident of Ulster County, N. Y. on or about the 24th day of December, 1945, leaving him surviving the grantors herein named being a brother and sisters respectively of said decedent.

Parcel No. 3.

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate, lying and being in the Town of Shandaken, Ulster County, New York, adjacent easterly to the lands of William H. McGrath, south of the Esopus Creek at Phoenicia, and bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point in the center of the Esopus Creek, where the center line of said Creek is intersected by an extension of the line of stone wall marking the easterly bounds of lands of William H. McGrath (said stone wall is located between the present residence of William H. McGrath and John L. McGrath) and runs thence southwesterly along said stone wall and the extension thereof (the easterly bounds of lands of William H. McGrath) to a brook marking the southerly bounds of lands of said William H. McGrath; thence easterly and northeasterly along the center of said brook as it winds and turns to the bounds of lands of George Kirk, being the easterly bounds of the parties of the first part; thence northerly along the westerly bounds of said Kirk and an extension of said bounds to the center of said Esopus Creek; thence down and along the center of said Esopus Creek as it winds and turns to the point and place of beginning. EXCEPTING so much thereof as was heretofore conveyed to the Ulster & Delaware Railroad. SUBJECT TO the rights of the public in and to the highway passing through such premises.

BEING a portion of the premises conveyed to John J. McGrath, James W. McGrath, Mary A. McGrath, Theresa McGrath and Rose A. McGrath by John L. McGrath by deed dated April 8th, 1902, and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in liber of deeds 463 at page 551. The said Theresa McGrath died intestate in the County of Ulster February 14, 1942, leaving her surviving as sole distributees William J. McGrath, John J. McGrath, Mary A. McGrath and Rose E. McGrath.

John J. McGrath died intestate in the County of Ulster December 24, 1945, leaving him surviving as sole distributees William J. McGrath, Rose E. McGrath and Mary A. McGrath. Mary McGrath died intestate in the County of Ulster February 17, 1953 leaving her surviving as sole distributees William J. McGrath and Rose E. McGrath. Your Horoscope

Saturday, April 10

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Many changes are are in the offing today and tonight. You would be wise to study carefully all possible changes and with your best judgment how you can intelligently turn them to your advantage. A fine day and evening to quickly arrange new deal with associates. Be wise.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make sure you understand the motives of associates so you can work harmoniously with them in the future. You must use diplomacy to effect a reconciliation with one important in your life.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Attend to your duties today quickly so that you can entertain leisurely later on in the day. Plan a wardrobe that brings out your finest features. A fascinating day for you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Pleasures you have enjoyed in the past are now stale, so seek new ones. Find more lucrative activities also. Try to stay within your budget or you will regret it later.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Stay at home with kin today and avoid trouble that could come from outside activities. Look into new outlets via brochures at home and make the future more profitable and satisfying.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be extra careful in travel today in order to avoid an accident that is possible otherwise. Care in speech is also necessary or you could get into trouble.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study well all financial matters you handle or you could become involved in something today that is best avoided. Make sure you listen to what experts have to say. Go out socially this evening with good friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make sure you do not annoy a cooperative associate during the day or a sorry severance of connections could occur. Criticizing others could also prove disastrous, especially at home. Show affection instead.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get on the good side of advisers you value and you gain the information you need. Not the right day to plan the future definitely, since quick changes would later have to be made. Wait for a better time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you show particular thoughtfulness toward one you value you add to the goodwill this person has for you. Show that you have imagination and purpose. Be wise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you act in any way that would annoy a higher-up, you would later be sorry, so use wisdom. Obey every law that applies to you and show you are a fine citizen. Taking a chance could be costly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 10) Get away from dull routine you are in and make new contacts. Look into new activities that fascinate you. Unless you have everything in perfect order, delay start on that trip you have in mind.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Look into new systems that will help you get all of your obligations better executed. Show experts that you are no slouch. Avoid arguments with mate and all goes well for you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those delightful young people who finds it easy to cooperate with others, but often in life, just as a certain course is to be pursued, quick changes occur to test your progeny's patience and wisdom. Give the finest education and spiritual training to permit your child to meet the test with flying colors. Any profession where the prerequisites are neat touch and fine finish is good here. Show love for your progeny.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel!" What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

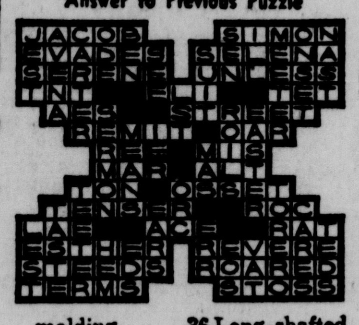
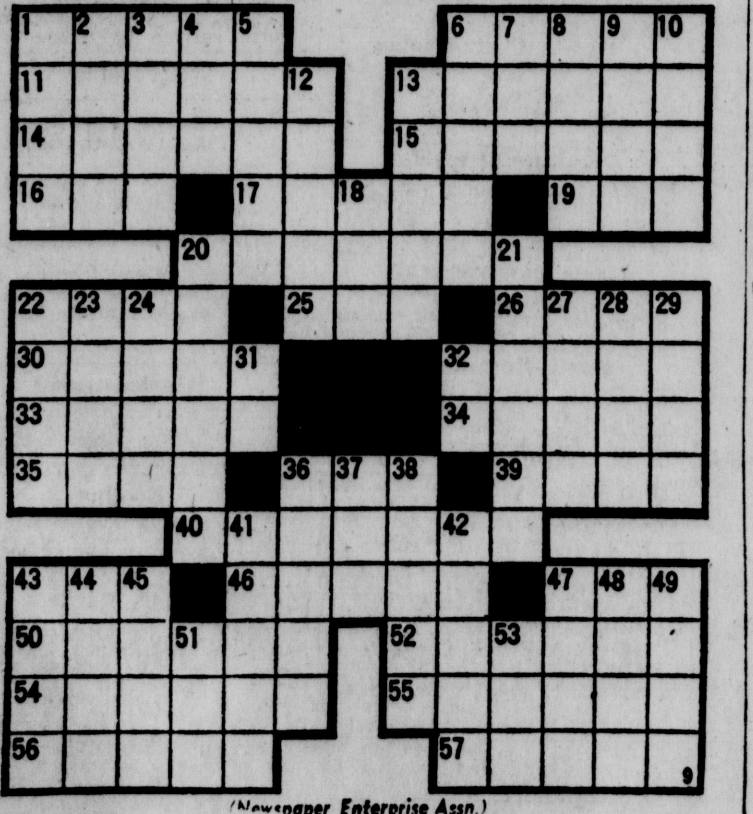
Answer to Previous Puzzle





(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Jean Adams'

TEEN FORUM

LOSS: (Q.) Last year I was engaged to a wonderful guy. We were going to be married when he came back from Vietnam. But he was killed.

Well, today I still get asked when he's coming home and if I still love him. It still hurts. How can I stop the hurt? I date other guys and try to forget him" — Hurt in California.

(A.) You loved a boy. Now he is gone. Beyond recall. You can't forget him, though. The thought or mention of his name will always bring you special feeling and emotion.

Quit trying to forget him. Answer people's questions. Live each day as it comes. The pain will eventually go away. You won't hurt. You will in all likelihood learn to love someone else, and marry him, and have children.

But you will always carry a memory. Accept that fact.

LIP CHEWER: (Q.) My lips are red and torn up. They are sore and ugly. I have a habit of chewing on them. It rips off the top skin. It makes them rough and red. How can I stop it and keep my lips soft? — Chewed Up in New Hampshire

(A.) Say, "I will not chew my lips." Then don't.

I am sending you the name of a treatment that will help you get and keep them in shape. Use it night and morning. During the day, keep your lips covered with pale lipstick or clear gloss.

And, every time you need to, say to yourself, " I will not chew my lips." If necesary, say "I will NOT chew my lips." When you say it, look at that "NOT," in capital letters, underlined.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2102, Houston, Texas 77001. Only letters that include a stamped, self-addressed envelope will be answered.)

Judgments on the Past

NEW YORK (AP) — With television entering its quiet phase, those concerned with the medium are busy looking backward and making some judgments, some with Emmys and other awards in mind, others just for the exercise.

It has been, by and large, a rather quiet few months.

Whether one likes the show or hates it, CBS's "All in the Family," a story about a bigot and his family, must be chalked up as the outstanding comedy series of the year. And the CBS News documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon," certainly caused more comment and controversy than any other actuality program.

There have been no one-shot efforts like last season's "My Sweet Charlie" or "Annie, the Women in the Life of a Man" to light up the TV skies. But an NBC "World Premiere" feature, "The Neon Ceiling," deserves mention and so do two Arthur Miller adaptations—NBC's "The Price" and the education stations' "Memory of Two Mondays."

Flip Wilson crashed through with a delightful variety series while the variety supply was bigger than the demand. There was also the experimental and ambitious "Great American Dream Machine" on the public broadcasting network which should not be overlooked. Carol Burnett's CBS hour had some high comedy moments and good satire.

Jacques Cousteau's underseas series on ABC continued to be interesting and effective. His "Tragedy of the Red Salmon," an hour that combined real-life drama with an implied editorial on conservation, was most memorable.

Among the welter of movies-made-for-TV, ABC's 90-minute "Movie of the Week" maintained a pretty good batting average. NBC's "Ironside" was, week in and week out, a superior cops-and-robbers tale with good scripts. "Gunsmoke," CBS's vintage Western, never let the home folks down, and a late entry, ABC's "Alias Smith and Jones" has a certain lighthearted charm amid the sounds of hoof-beats and crashing fists.

Opening lead—♣2

Here is an unusual problem. South succeeded in going down two at his one notrump contract. He rose with dummy's king of clubs at trick one — a correct start. He led the 10 of diamonds, covered East's king with the ace, went to dummy with the heart ace, led a second diamond, won the queen and led a third diamond to West's nine. West led the queen of hearts which was won by dummy's king. A club lost to West's ace, whereupon a heart lead gave East two heart tricks and a spade lead back ended all hope for the declarer.

At different stages in the play, South could have made one, two or three no-trump. See if you can find these lost opportunities.

The first was when East played the king of diamonds. South could have ducked. If East led back a spade they would have collected four spades and the ace of clubs and South would have made his contract on the nose.

The play for three no-trump would have been for South to play three rounds of diamonds immediately. This would put West on lead with the nine and his best play would be to lead ace and another club, but this would allow South two clubs, two hearts and five diamonds for a total of nine.

The chance for eight tricks occurred when West led the queen of hearts. South should let this hold. If West played his last heart South would make nine. If West shifted to ace and another club, South would only make one heart trick, two clubs and five diamonds for eight tricks.

TOWN: The word coach comes from the name of a town in Hungary—Koszi—where the vehicle was first developed. A coach in athletics is derived from the name because he carries his "pupils" along, as a vehicle might, by giving them training.

Reds Keep Up Pressure

Cong Sappers Strike Again

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops made scattered harassing attacks in South Vietnam Thursday night and today and kept up pressure on two beseiged allied artillery bases in the central highlands.

A U.S. unit was attacked 25 miles northwest of Saigon and six Americans were wounded.

Rockets and mortars hit three allied air bases, a South Vietnamese division headquarters and two cities. Another attack broke up a government-sponsored rally of Viet Cong defectors in the Mekong Delta.

South Vietnamese headquarters said five civilians were killed and 23 civilians and two soldiers were wounded in the attacks.

About 30 Viet Cong sappers moving under the cover of a mortar barrage attacked troops of the U.S. 20th Engineer Brigade 25 miles northwest of Saigon before dawn today. Six Americans were wounded and three vehicles were damaged by mortar, rocket-propelled grenade and small arms fire before the sappers were driven back by gunships. Enemy casualties were not known.

Targets of the shelling attacks included Da Nang, the Holloway and Dak To air bases in the central highlands, the headquarters of the South Vietnamese 5th Infantry Division at Lai Khe 25 miles north of Saigon and the provincial capital of Vi Thang in the Mekong Delta about 110 miles southwest of Saigon.

The U.S. Command said enemy gunners fired five 122mm rockets at the Da Nang Air Base and one landed inside the base. The command said there were no U.S. casualties and damage was light. South Vietnamese headquarters said three of the 100-pound rockets fell short of their target and landed in Da Nang, heavily damaging three houses and wounding six civilians. Earlier reports had said five civilians were killed.

At Lai Khe, five civilians were reported killed and 11 civilians and one soldier wounded during a shelling attack.

At Vi Thanh in the delta, a crowd of about 5,000 persons broke up in panic when the Viet Cong fired eight mortar rounds into a rally for defectors a few minutes after the program began. South Vietnamese headquarters said six civilians and one militiaman were wounded.

The United States sent more waves of B52 bombers to attack North Vietnamese troop concentrations surrounding Fire Base 6 in the northern part of the central highlands near the juncture of the borders of Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam. The base is about 300 miles north of Saigon.

U.S. helicopter gunships attacked North Vietnamese troops in a bunker complex north of the post. Pilots claimed 10 enemy soldiers were killed and 18 bunkers destroyed.

Hanoi's Drive — Something Serious

SAIGON (AP) — The current North Vietnamese offensive in the central highlands is "something serious," in the words of one U.S. analyst, covering a much larger area than previous spring campaigns in the vast triborder region where Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos come together.

It may be an effort to demonstrate that Lam Son 719—the South Vietnamese invasion of Laos—didn't seriously undermine Hanoi's ability to strike when and where it wants to.

Instead of concentrating their fire on a single position, as at Dak Seang in 1970 or Ben Het in 1969, the North Vietnamese this time appear to be conducting an offensive—or the semblance of one-across two of Vietnam's biggest provinces. Kontum and Pleiku.

"There is the feeling among some Americans that the North Vietnamese will try to take over a district headquarters in the highlands, if for no other reason than to prove that they can do it," said one American official.

They attacked the district town of Phu Nhon, in southern Pleiku Province, last week and came "dangerously close," in the words of one source, to overrunning the U.S. compound. At least one American—perhaps more—was killed.

The North Vietnamese effort is probably a "psycho-political" one, to tell the people of the region that Saigon isn't able to protect them.

Pleiku is a vast, mountnous province that is one of least populated and placed by U.S. statistics at or near the bottom in terms of government security. It is a likely place for such an attempt.

Its people are primarily highly independent Montagnard tribes who don't like Vietnamese and shun allegiances. It lacks enough "internal resources'' — meaning local troops—to defend its villages and hamlets.

Since the U.S. 4th Division pulled out last year, the few Americans in Pleiku are mostly engineers, helicopter units and other support contingents.

But except for the attack on Phu Nhon district town and other isolated clashes, the enemy's pressure thus far has been confined mainly to Kontum Proyince, another huge rough province just to the north.

Kontum was the province of the Special Forces camps—Dak Pek, Dak Sut, Dak Seang—which came under siege in years past, and of the bloody battle of Dak To, where on Hill 875 in November 1967 about 100 Americans were killed in five days. This year, Kontum is Fire Base 6: a dusty, mountain top outpost which helps guard the populated areas against infiltrating enemy troops.

Fighting has centered at Fire Base 6 since early March when, according to responsible sources, a battalion of the South Vietnamese 42nd Regiment was "destroyed," and a second battalion was 80 per cent wiped out.

American helicopter piots attempting to rescue the survivors told a story similar to that of the pilots flying support in Laos-South Vietnamese soldiers clincing to the skids, overloading, having to be pushed off so the choppers could rise.

Tht commander of one of the decimated battalions was ordered off a helicopter at gunpoint. A small OH6 Scout chopper was so burdened with desperate soldiers that it crashed into a tree while trying to take off, killing one man.

Finally an American commander refused to supply any more helicopters for the rescue effort unless armed South Vietnamese observers flew with them. They didn't fly, so the helicopters didn't either.

Things then quieted down until about March 31, when a North Vietnamese force pushed the South Vietnamese out of Fire Base 6, with 200 government troops killed, wounded or missing.

Allied air strikes hit the base, and the North Vietnamese gave it up the next day to the South Vietnamese. They have kept it for the last week, although living mostly underground, waiting for the mortar barrages to cease.

South Vietnamese headquarters in Saigon claims close to 2,000 enemy killed in the fighting around Fire Base 6 and Fire Base 5, on another promontory of the same ridge five miles to the southeast. Informed Americans in the area consider these figures dubious, although they contend that round-the-clock air strikes, including repeated hammerings by B52s, have cost the enemy heavily.

The most pessimistic assessment by U.S. experts is that the siege of Fire Base 6 is the first—but possibly not the most important—move in a North Vietnamese plan to make big trouble in the 2nd Military Region.

Packard and a Clash

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Antiwar demonstrators clashed with police in the streets outside a hotel where Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard was speaking Thursday night.

Police used riot batons to break up a crowd of about 150 youthful, chanting demonstrators and made six arrests.

Packard's appearance before about 600 members of the Western Electronics Manufacturers Association was moved here for security reasons after antiwar groups threatened publicly to disrupt the scheduled talk in Palo Alto.

The groups said they would make a "citizens arrest" of Packard on charges of being "a war criminal."

Police declared the demonstration outside the Hilton Hotel an illegal assembly and ordered participants to disperse before chasing some demonstrators around a two-block section of downtown San Francisco.

One girl was hauled out of a bar across the street from the hotel after shouting obscenities at police. Five males also were arrested.

Chanting "Jail Packard, Free Bobby Seale" and "NLF—Pathet Lao—U.S. out of Asia now," the pickets carried signs charging "Packard Profits Off GI's Blood" and "Packard before Calley."

Packard, a multimillionaire electronics manufacturer who founded Hewlett-Packard Co. with William Hewlett in 1939, referred to the demonstrators as the "campaign committee" of Rep. Paul N. McClosky, R-Calif. McClosky, an anti-war advocate, has said he will run in New Hampshire's presidential primary against President Nixon.

At the close of his wide-ranging speech on the stae of the nation's defense, Packard said "The Dave Harrises and Jane Fonda want to destroy you as well as me—don't let them do it."

Miss Fonda, an actress, and Harris, husband of folksinger Joan Baez, are both antiwar advocates.

Muskie Endorses Antiwar Protest

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, the leading Democratic presidential contender, supports the large antiwar demonstration scheduled in Washington April 24.

Muskie gave his endorsement in remarks inserted into the Congressional Record this week.

"I endorse the efforts of those who are coming to Washington April 24," Muskie said. "I endorse and support this meeting on April 24 for it represents a commitment to an effective, impassioned and yet peaceful protest against the war."

The senator's aides, however, told newsmen Thursday Muskie was only endorsing the demonstration planned by the National Peace Action Group.

A more militant organization, called the People's Coalition for Peace, also plans April 24 demonstrations in Washington.

A spokesman for that group, Chicago Seven defendant Rennie Davis, said Thursday the People's Coalition also planned demonstrations in the capital the week of May 3 and may block federal buildings.

Davis asked about 250 employes of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), most of them young people, "to join us in a strike of the U.S. government to end the war." It would include, he said, "a limited incursion into the hallways of Congress" where peace demonstrators would show "those impotent old men" what is happening in Vietnam."

The peace action coalition claims the support of seven senators, 17 representatives, the Americans for Democratic Action, the American Civil Liberties, Union, several labor unions and the widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Muskie said in his Congressional Record remarks he hoped demonstrators "not be satisfied with a single day of dissent but rather return to their communities and campuses to mobilize the political support for ending American involvement in the war .."

Golda Critical Of Sadat Words

By United Press International

Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir said today recent statements by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat 'nearly destroys ever hope for peace in the Middle East.

Mrs. Meir, in an interview published in the Tel Aviv newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth, said that despite Sadat's pronouncements "I am ready to meet him at any place, any time."

She said "we want a peace that will constitute the beginning of the road to human coexistence in the Middle East. President Sadat, however, does not cease talking of resumption of the fighting, and he dictates such terms to us that will enable him to get rid of us in the future.

"We thought Sadat would settle down and begin to tackle the problems of the Egyptian nation," she said, but "it seems to me that one can now doubt if this assessment was correct. Everything Sadat has said .... nearly destroys every hope."

Mrs. Meir's statements came at a time Israel and the United States were reported at odds over plans for reopening the Suez Canal. Diplomatic sources in Jerusalem said the United States wanted Israel to withdraw its troops up to 25 miles from the Canal, blocked since the 1967 war, while Israeli military experts would only reluctantly support pulling back 10 miles.

The Israelis also want ironclad guarantees pulling back will not militarily benefit the Egyptians.

In Tel Aviv, UPI Correspondent Thomas Cheatham reported that Israel now appeared willing to at least give a little in the diplomatic maneuvering with Egypt. He said Israel political sources lent credence to reports Israel would give the United States a plan that not only included a partial pullback but also tacit approval for allowing Egyptian policemen to cross the Canal. Up to this point, Israel has never said publicly it would allow Egyptians to cross.

In Jordan, Palestinian guerrillas and Jordanian authorities appeared to be trying to take some of the heat out of their 14-day crisis. Guerrillas in trucks and jeeps left the capital of Amman with heavy weapons, apparently headed to mountain bases, and the government refrained from mentioning an already-passed Thursday deadline to have the arms out of the city.
